SHERROD SMITH TURNS BACK SPEAKER TRIBE; MAILS HOLDS DODGERS AFTER CALDWELL FAILS

EBBETS FIELD, BROOKLYN, N. Y., Oct. 7—Sherry Smith's south paw slants were poison to the Cleveland Indians today and the Brooklyn Dodgers made off with the third game of the world's series by a score of two to one.

EBBETS FIELD, BROOKLYN, N. Y., October 7.—Another reel of the annual world's series thriller entitled: "Taking the third game" was shown this afternoon on the baseball screen with the gonfalon winners of National and American Leagues—Brooklyn and Cleveland—in the leading roles.

Some 20,000 or more fans saw the Brooklyn Dodgers and Cleveland Indians come to grips to take the odd game on the Brooklyn's ball lot before taking the trail westward tonight to engage in a four-ply affair on the Indians' reservation in Cleveland.

Each club having notched a victory in their bat handles the rival managers, Robinson, of Brooklyn, and Speaker, of Cleveland, realized the tactical advantage of capturing the contest today.

With a four game series on foreign soil confront him, battling before unfriendly thousands, Manager Robinson wanted to go west tonight with a one-game lead for his Brooklyn cohorts.

"I've got Sherry Smith and Jeff Pfeiffer ready for the game," said Manager Robinson. "It depends on how they warm up which one will take the mound."

The Indians, with their two best bets, Coveleskie and Bagby out of the reckoning for the time being, had "Duster" Mails pinned for polishing off the Dodgers. Mails was a Brooklyn rookie, some years ago. The home folks remembered him as the port side flinger with a wicked curve, but short on control as a midnight joy rider. Some weeks ago Cleveland got him from the Pacific coast, and he practically pitched the Indians to the pennant. The Brooklyn club, one and all, hoped that the "Duster" would be trotted out to make a Roman holiday for them. The Dodgers say they can beat him.

"If Mails gets his fast ball working," said Tris Speaker today, "the Brooklyns will have the time of their lives getting to him. Mails is ready to pitch when I call on him."

The Brooklyn victory yesterday put the spurs to local enthusiasm and a large crowd came early to the ball park. The first in line came before sunup. The weather was warmer too, and the Brooklyns felt pretty comfortable over the whitewashing of the Indians yesterday. Noon found the Dodgers busy with a long batting practice.

"SCRAP THE LEAGUE," SAYS HARDING

Flaming, Oil-Soaked, Fire-Proofed Airplane Alights Safely With Newly Invented Midnight Landing Device

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Experts of the army and navy aviation service today were preparing reports to the government on the flying demonstration of a flaming oil-soaked, fire proofed airplane, and its midnight landing device, witnessed by them last night at Mineola. American and British experts who saw the spectacular demonstration by Paul Collins, aviation flyer, said it marked one of the most important developments in aviation since the armistice.

Particular importance is attached to the demonstration because of the recent loss of so many mail aviators caused by flaming machines.

Before making his ascent to an altitude of 5,000 feet, Collins' machine was treated throughout with the fire-proofing "dope" and then completely saturated with gasoline. Collins himself donned a costume similarly treated. At his highest altitude he set fire to the gasoline and thrilled the countryside by his flaming comet-like course. On his descent, at about 1,000 feet, he also touched off two large flares of magnesium, on the tips of the wings, and, by manipulating two large mirrors underneath the fuselage, he illuminated the whole landing field, enabling him to make a perfect "daylight" landing.

Among the many aviation experts who watched the demonstration were Lieutenant C. N. Liqued, technical expert for the United States navy air service, and General A. C. Critchley, of the Royal British Air Force. The fire proofing, as well as the mechanical apparatus for operating the device, is the invention of Parker H. Bradley, of Nutley, N. J.

Direct Issue Of Ratifying Or Rejecting League Accepted By G. O. P. Presidential Nominee

DES MOINES, IA., Oct. 7—A direct issue of ratifying or rejecting the league of nations was accepted by Senator Harding in a speech here today, brushing aside the problem of clarifying reservations and declaring he would "favor staying out" of the covenant written at Versailles.

The candidate said he wanted no acceptance of the league with reservations to clarify American obligations, but that the proper course would be to reject those commitments altogether.

"I do not want to clarify those obligations," he said. "I want to turn my back on them. It is not interpretation but rejection that I am seeking."

Governor Cox's definition of the issue was accepted in direct terms by the Republican nominee, who said Democratic stubbornness had prevented the senate from perfecting the covenant and had made the question placed before the voter a simple one. He called on all of those favoring a super-government to "vote the Democratic ticket and pray God to protect you against the consequences of your folly."

The senator also re-stated his program of a world association based on principles in harmony with the constitution and renewed his pledge to initiate the formation of such a concert immediately after his election.

"Our opponents" he said, "are persistently curious to know whether, if —or, perhaps I may better say, when —I am elected, I intend to 'scrap' the league. It might be sufficient in reply to suggest the futility of 'scrapping' something which is already 'scrapped,' whether President Wilson is to be blamed or thanked for the result. The fact remains the Paris league has been scrapped by the hand of its chief architect. The stubborn insistence that it must be ratified without dotting an 'i' or crossing a 't', the refusal to advise—that is to counsel—with the senate, in accordance with the mandate of the constitution is wholly responsible for that condition.

"The issue which our opponents are endeavoring to befog is singularly simple and direct. That issue, as made by the Democratic president and the Democratic platform and the Democratic candidate does not present to the American people the question whether they shall favor some form of association among the nations for the purpose of preserving international peace, but whether they favor the particular league proposed by President Wilson.

"The Democratic platform and candidate have not declared 'an' association, but for 'that' association, and it is that association and not some other which we are promised will be ratified within 60 days if the Democratic candidate be elected.

"The platform, to be sure, approaches its endorsement with winding words and sly qualifications calculated to betray the innocent and entrap the unwary; but it does, nevertheless, endorse the league as it stands. It does not advocate or favor any reservations or amendments or changes or qualifications. It goes no further than to suggest that reservations will not be opposed which make clearer or more specific the obligations of the United States to the league.

"But there is no need of reservations of this character. The obligations are clear enough and specific enough. I oppose the proposed league not because I fail to understand what a former member of the Democratic administration has said 'we are being let in for,' but because I believe I understand precisely what we are being let in for. I do not want to clarify these obligations; I want to turn my back on them. It is not interpretation, but rejection that I am seeking.

"My position is that the proposed league strikes a deadly blow at our constitutional integrity and surrenders to a dangerous extent our independence of action. The Democratic platform rejects this position, to quote the exact words, 'as utterly vain, if not vicious.' The Democratic candidate in his speech of acceptance has said a definite plan has been agreed upon. The league of nations is in operation. Senator Harding as the Republican candidate for the presidency, proposes in plain words that we remain out of it. As the Democratic candidate, I favor going in.'

"The issue therefore is clear.

"I understand the position of the Democratic candidate and he understands mine, as his own words just now quoted plainly show, notwithstanding the recent pretense that my position has not been made clear. In simple words, it is, that he favors going into the Paris league and I favor staying out.

British Oil Tank Ship Explodes; Many Killed

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—An oil tank aboard the British steamer G. R. Crowe, tied up for repairs in Shewan's dry dock in Brooklyn, exploded early this afternoon while approximately 100 men were working on the craft. Nearly an hour after the explosion the number of killed and injured was not known definitely but a report made to police headquarters had a dozen killed and many injured. Ambulances and Red Cross workers were rushed to the scene from all parts of the city.

Because of intense confusion in the yard it was difficult to obtain accurate information even an hour after the blast. It was believed, however, that a score of workmen had been trapped in the hold. An employe of the dry deck company said he had seen at least six bodies taken from the hold of the Crowe. The blast blew a great hole in the starboard side of the ship. At one port hole appeared a workman trapped below. He pleaded with his fellow workers ashore to rescue him. A hose was turned on him, while workers raised a cry of "ladders; ladders, for God's sake, ladders." When ladders were brought rescuers worked desperately. Firemen in gas masks descended into the smoke filled hold. Bodies were hauled up with ropes and the injured rushed to hospitals. An hour after the explosion four bodies had been recovered. A hasty check up of workers showed four more missing. The number of injured was placed between 20 and 30.

WEST WILL VOTE FOR HARDING BUT WILL NOT REPUDIATE LEAGUE

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright by Times Publishing Co.)

This is the third and last of a series of articles analyzing political conditions west of the Mississippi river based upon personal investigation in fourteen states during the last thirty days and is to be followed by a daily canvass of the situation in each state east of the Mississippi beginning with Maryland tomorrow.)

ANYONE who penetrates the political smokescreen that envelops the presidential campaign in the west cannot but come to the conclusion that the great mass of the people have not been impressed with the notion that Senator Harding's disinclination to join the present League of Nations is an absolute refusal to carry forward American idealism. There is a faith that if the Ohio Senator is elected he will be persuaded by a public opinion untroubled by personal issues and domestic political circumstances to bring America into a partnership of nations. The support given to Harding by former President Taft and Herbert Hoover and Charles Evans Hughes has been pointed to effectively by Republican newspapers as convincing proof of what Republican policy will be after the election and there is no disposition to credit the extremist tendencies of Senators Johnson and Borah as having any more control over conservative Warren G. Harding than the radicalism of those two gentlemen on domestic issues will influence the Republican policy on the tariff or taxation.

So much misconception of the true purpose of the present League of Nations exists and so much perversion of what the covenant actually says—it is indeed being printed for the first time now in many western newspapers—that as an issue in the campaign it has not only gone over the heads of many people but the controversy has wearied and bored them. But the writer is firmly convinced that the average man when once told the truth about the League of Nations favors it wholeheartedly. The average man in many states, however, is not being told what the covenant of the League says but what politicians say it means. One editor laughingly told the writer he never argued in his editorial column the provisions of the covenant—"we just tell the people it means international bankruptcy, that's all." Fundamentally the west believes as much in peace as it did in 1916 and once the campaign is over and the Republican newspapers who have been lukewarm on the subject because they didn't want to help Governor Cox's candidacy begin to come out strongly in favor or of the League again, a noticeable change in public opinion will develop. Many editors resent deeply that the League issue has been interjected in the campaign and interferred with their domestic political desires and will

OHIO SHOWS BIG GAIN; FOURTH STATE IN SIZE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Populations of seven states were announced this morning by the census bureau and at 4 p. m. the population of the entire country together with the populations of the two remaining states, Minnesota and Nebraska, will be made public.

Of the seven states the populations of which were announced this morning, Pennsylvania had the largest numerical growth. Its total population is 8,720,159, an increase of 1,055,048 or 13.8 per cent and it thus remains the second most populous state. It showed its second largest growth on record and also made the second greatest growth of any state in the 1920 census. Its relative increase was the lowest in its history.

Ohio, fourth among the states, has a population of 5,759,368. It made the largest numerical increase in its history, adding 992,247 or 20.8 per cent more people to its population of 1910 and retains its present rank.

[illegible] with a population of [illegible] [illegible] per cent. The state passed [illegible] was seventh in the 1910 census.

[illegible] an increase of [illegible] per cent [illegible] for the [illegible] [illegible] census. It fell [illegible] North Carolina, which ranked directly [illegible] in 1910.

Virginia has a population of [illegible] an increase of [illegible] or 11.9 per cent over 1910. The state [illegible] its rank as 20th most populous state.

Arkansas with a population of 1,752,[illegible] increased [illegible] or 11.2 per cent during the last ten years. Arkansas retains her 1910 rank as 25th state.

Florida's 1920 population was announced as 967,[illegible] an increase of 215,[illegible] or 28.5 per cent over that of 1910. The state passed Colorado in the present census.

Detroit, Mich. (revised) 993,678, increase 527,912 or 113.3 per cent previously announced at 993,739.

Houghton, Mich., 4,456, decrease 1,454 or 16.2 per cent.

Philadelphia (revised) 1,823,779, increase 274,771, or 17.7 per cent, previously announced 1,823,158.

In 1910 the population of Ohio was 4,767,121, ranking it as 4th most populous state in the Union. While Ohio was not admitted as a state until 1803 the population of the territory now constituting the state was first enumerated at the Federal Census in 1800, when it ranked as 18th in population with 45,365 people. In area Ohio ranked as 35th state in 1910, with 40,740 square miles of land, making her population, per square, 117. An increase of 919,[illegible] or 14.7 percent was shown in 1910.

In the earlier censuses Ohio showed a very rapid growth. During the 20 years, 1800-20, the population increased more than twelve times, and during the next 20 years, 1820-40, it considerably more than doubled. "From 1840 to 1910 the growth of the state was very much slower, the population not doubling again until 40 years later in 1880. During the 30 years, 1880-1910, the population of the state increased 49.1 percent.

Comparison of the rates of increase for the state with those of the United States shows that during the first 40 years the population of the state increased very much faster than did that of the United States. From 1840 to 1910, however, the rate of increase for the state during each decade has been lower than that for the United States.

ESTIMATE U. S. CENSUS AT 105,700,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The bulk of its work completed, the census bureau at 4 o'clock this afternoon will announce the total number of inhabitants in continental United States.

Indications are that the complete census, the 14th in the country's history, will show a total population for the United States, exclusive of insular possessions of approximately 105,700,000. Nearly 12,250,000 persons are estimated to be living in island possessions, making a total of 117,950,000 persons under the protection of the stars and stripes.

These estimates are based on a recent official announcement that the census when 85 per cent complete, gave a population of 90,586,742 for that proportion of the country.

The relative growth of the nation from 1900 to 1910 was 2 per cent, but this rate is expected to be cut at least 15 per cent this year, chiefly, census bureau officials say, through stoppage of immigration during the war and by the heavy emigration during that period.

One of the striking developments of this year's census was the relative growth of cities and industrial centers as compared with the farming regions. Rural growth in the last 10 years was only one-third as great as it was in the previous decade, while the cities nearly maintained their 1900-1910 rate of growth.

The census bureau to date has spent 40 weeks in supervising the enumeration and tabulation of the country's millions. A similar period elapsed before the country's population was made public in 1910. This year, however, all minor civil divisions and incorporationed places of each state will have been made public with the announcement of the United States total, while in 1910, the census bureau's objective was to arrive at the total as soon as possible, leaving five states and their county civil divisions to be announced later. The work of the 13th census did not begin until April 5 and ended December 16, 1910.

On January 1, this year, 85,000 enumerators began counting the men, women and children of the country and collecting certain information concerning the nation's resources. Under the direction of Sam L. Rogers, chief of the census bureau, enumerators collected data on farms, manufacturers, forests and oil production, and it is this work, which will occupy the attention of the bureau from now on. A large force of statisticians and clerks will be retained to complete it.

Installation of modern computing machines and the instructions sent out by the bureau early in January for the purpose of familiarizing itself with census questions are credited by officials as being mainly responsible for the rapid progress made in the enumeration.

Sunday Is Rally Day

Sunday will be Rally Day at the Second Presbyterian Sunday School.

In response to many inquiries and comments regarding Rally Day at Second Presbyterian and Sunday school officers would like to stress the fact that those who may be the only one in the family who can possibly attend should not fail to be present in order that they may represent their family. It is understood there are a number of families who cannot be represented in full but it is hoped that as many as possible will be present.

HOLY REDEEMER CHURCH NEWS

The local Council of K. of C.'s and a large class of candidates for initiation, next Sunday at 7:30, will attend High Mass at Holy Redeemer church. To solemnize the occasion, Mr. Edward Kean, skillful organist of Holy Redeemer church, will be at his best, playing appropriate airs on the tuneful church chimes.

The National order of the K. of C. is just now enjoying remarkable prosperity, the membership now numbering seven hundred thousand.

The world wide favorable record which the K. of C.'s have established for themselves by their patriotic welfare services at home and overseas is doubtless the mystic magnetic power daily increasing membership and popularity of the great order.

Sunday morning, therefore, a big turnout of the K. of C.'s will mark the auspicious beginning of the day's important work.

Community Sing At Scioto Furnace Is Well Attended

With many a merry jest and laughter intermingled, twenty-six troubadour entertainers from Portsmouth and Wheelersburg, drove gaily over the hills last night in six machines to Scioto Furnace. They found the church building well filled with folk to greet them, so with the setting up of music stand, the tuning of instruments, and the donning of nursing costume by the hygiene class, the program began.

All the numbers given were greatly appreciated and received with great enthusiasm by the crowd. The duet by Mrs. B. F. Kimble and Mrs. Charles Storck, the readings by the Misses Goetz and Gerlach and the work of the hygiene class represented by the Misses Edwards, Fleur, Andre, McHave and Burke, especially held the tense interest of the audience.

Attorney B. F. Kimble addressed the people present on "Community Betterment," was strong in his commendation of the Red Cross in his speech.

A splendid program is being arranged for a similar sing, to be held Friday evening, October 8 at 7:30 at the Pond Run church.

Earth's Oil Distributed In Pores.

References to "lakes" or "streams" of oil are frequently made by persons unfamiliar with petroleum geology, or by those who wish to mislead them. The fact is that a so-called "pool" of oil consists really of a mass of sand saturated with it, or an area of crystalline limestone or porous rock containing oil in its pores. No subterranean hollow filled with oil, such as the novice pictures, ever has been found, and the locations of existing dry wells clearly prove the absence of any channels connecting the pools. —Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Islands of the Antilles.

Earthquakes and hurricanes are familiar phenomena in Martinique. Likewise Guadeloupe, which is really two islands, called Grande Terre and Basse Terre, a narrow arm of the sea separating them. The former is mostly lowland, with extensive sugar plantations, while Basse Terre, despite its name, is rugged, with cloud-capped mountains that show modest signs of volcanic activity. Not far to the south is a bunch of small islands which, being regarded as one of the strategic points of the Antilles, are formidably fortified.

Your Eyebrows.

An eyebrow usually contains about three hundred hairs, and each eyelid is provided with about two hundred and ten lashes. The reason why an eyelash in the eye is so irritating is that, like other hairs, its surface is covered with minute scales.

Miners Threaten To Take A Vacation

MUSKOGEE, OKLA., October 7.—State officials, coal operators and miners' union officials were watching the coal fields of Oklahoma today for reports of suspension of work by miners, who it was reported would go on "vacation" because of refusal of their demands for increased pay. A "vacation" walkout today of miners of the state under contract with the Southwest Interstate Coal Operators Association was predicted last night by E. R. Ross, secretary of District 21, United Mine Workers of America.

The Southwest Operators' Association several days ago denied an increase of 30 percent demanded by the miners at a conference in Kansas City. Secretary Ross declared a walk out would not be sanctioned by union officials and indicated that "vacationists" might be suspended from the union.

Hardwick Is Nominated

District U. B. Rally Closes, Is Big Success

United Brethren church Wednesday evening was well filled with persons eager to hear Rev. Walter Knapp deliver a talk on "Evangelism." The evening meeting was the third and closing session of the district rally of the Southeast Ohio U. B. Conference held all day Wednesday at the local church.

Rev. Knapp is well known throughout the United Brethren conference of this part of the country as an able speaker on the subject he discussed here last night.

In his address on "Evangelism" he placed special emphasis on progressive evangelism. He urged more personal work and continued efforts instead of one big week of several days of revival meetings. The speaker made the keynote of his theme personal work explaining that much good could be accomplished in this manner instead of one spasmodic meeting. Should a big revival be held he spoke of the necessity of following up the evangelistic meeting with added personal work and continued effort.

Rev. A. B. Cox of Circleville, who is no stranger to local U. B. members spoke on Young People's Work. He told of the 5,000 membership goal that had been set and how there were already 3,200 enrolled. The goal is to be reached by June, 1921. The speaker also gave a general talk on the Young People's Work in the U. B. church. Special music was rendered by the choir.

Grand jury subpoenaes were carried by the detectives:

"There is no hurry, as the crime was a year ago," declared Mr. Smith, adding that he was going to "sit tight, and wait, confident that sooner or later the trio would show up at their customary haunts."

FIND STILL ON BOAT, TWO ARRESTS MADE

IRONTON, O., Oct. 7—As the result of a raid made Wednesday afternoon by Sheriff Hutchinson and Revenue Agent McCullough, Lindsay Justice and Otis Vance are in jail on a charge of illicit distilling.

The raid was attended with some excitement, Sheriff Hutchinson firing a number of shots before effecting the arrests and the alleged moonshiners making a strenuous effort to escape on the bosom of the old Ohio.

It has been suspected for some time that Justice and Vance were conducting a moonshine still on a family boat moored just below the Gibbons Farm at Hanging Rock and near the site of a fishing camp that has been popular for several years. Having secured sufficient evidence to warrant the raid, Revenue Agent McCullough and Sheriff Hutchinson drove to the scene in the latter's car shortly after noon Wednesday.

The officers slipped through the willows and located the boat, but it is apparent that the men had a lookout, as when the officers broke from cover and made toward the boat, Justice and Vance, who were on the bank, at once made a rush for their craft. Despite six shots fired by the sheriff, they succeeded in getting to the boat, had slipped her lines and were drifting out into the current when the sheriff took a running leap after a dash through mud and water and succeeded in boarding the boat. Despite the fact that his revolver was empty, Sheriff Hutchinson kicked in the door of the boat and found the two occupants stretched out on the floor, where they had taken refuge out of range of possible bullets. They surrendered without protest.

The officers found a nice still still in actual operation and dripping moonshine, in addition to about three quarts of the finished product, about seventy-five gallons of "mash" and the necessary ingredients of manufacture. Two shot-guns and a revolver were also found.

The officers brought their prisoners to the city shortly after two o'clock and landed them in jail.

New York Physician Tells Why More Organic Phosphate Means More Nerve Vitality

The Nerves, the Blood, the Boans of Over 40% of American Men and Women Need Organic Phosphate and Need It Badly.

A Vigorous Healthy Body and Keen Active Mind Belongs to Those Who Have Plenty Of It.

Wise will weak, played-out, thin, puny and ambitionless people learn that there is nothing much the matter with them and that all they need is a few grains of the right kind of phosphate every day for a few weeks to make them as energetic, vigorous and [illegible] as of old?

Every month thousands of people are learning that lack of sufficient nerve vitality is the underlying cause of many diseases.

Your nerves control your body and without an abundant supply of nerve force life is worry, fear and disappointment.

Phosphorus is one of the vital elements of every living cell in your body and there are millions of them.

Nature's way is to supply phosphates to these cells with the food you eat in the form of phosphates.

But to millions of people modern foods do not supply enough organic phosphate, so there you are.

And just for the lack of this same organic phosphate which every drug-gist sells under the name of Bitro-Phosphate 10 percent and over of the men and women of America are today crying in the wilderness for health and strength and a chance to live a cheerful, vigorous, helpful life.

"Nerve weakness, both physical and mental, is indeed a curse to the nation," says a well-known New York physician.

Feed your nerves the food that makes nerve force; that helps to rebuild every run-down, starving cell in your body.

"If I had my way Bitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor in the land," says Frederick M. Kolle, M. D., Editor-in-Chief of "Physicians' 'Who's Who'," a nationally known author of medical text books and a brilliant physician.

Later on Dr. Kolle says: "It is not difficult to detect women who have plenty of nerve vitality, nerves that are rich in organic phosphate." This is equally true of men. These women are usually cheerful, [illegible] and pleasing; they have youth and vigor at 50 and even 60 years and are [illegible] over with vitality. You don't find them pale, weak, nervous or haggard looking at 40 or complaining of this or that ailment.

Every day thousands of men and women who are losing their youth before their time, whose mental and physical powers are so limited that total discouragement is near, are learning that Bitro-Phosphate, a simple organic phosphate that Fisher and Streich and every druggist dispenses, is all they need to reestablish nerve vitality, strength and keenness of mind.—adv.

Weather Influences Moods

Most city workers who have thought about it agree that they do their worst best in windy weather. The reason is simple. Calm weather fills the atmosphere with the poisonous carbonic acid gas that is produced by human breathing. A wind sweeps this away and replaces it with stimulating oxygen. Artificially produced oxygen is now used in some offices with the effect of abolishing that tired feeling among the employes.

NUMEROUS IMPROVEMENTS IN CITY CONSIDERED LAST NIGHT BY COUNCIL

Considerable legislation providing for the improvement of several streets and alleys and the construction of a number of sanitary sewers in various parts of the city was passed by Council at its regular meeting Wednesday night. The service department was also ordered to make the necessary repairs to the streets in the North Moreland addition and an estimate was ordered on the cost of improving the river grade at the foot of Market street after Capt. Kimball, owner of the wharf boat, urged that some immediate relief be given. He declared that the Green Line steamers and the Liberty Transfer company had threatened to withhold their wharfage fees and file suits seeking damages unless the grade was put in better condition. Councilman Wegharst pointed out in this connection that the wharfage fees, which were supposed to be kept in a separate fund had been diverted to other channels instead of being applied to the expense of keeping the grade in proper shape for travel.

New Traffic Ordinance

A new traffic ordinance prepared by the Portsmouth Automobile Club and endorsed by that organization was presented for consideration but was put over after some changes had been suggested and which included the establishment of one-way streets for traffic in order to try the project. The ordinance will be made a special order of business at an adjourned meeting to be held on Oct. 11.

In the matter of the complaint of property owners on Boundary and Jackson streets of the stench from Lawson Run, the engineer submitted an estimate of $200 to clear the stream of rubbish and keep it clear.

Warwick Anderson urged council to retain the Gay street engine house now occupied by the Community Service and Red Cross and he was told that it had already been eliminated from the list of property which the city proposed to sell.

A motion offered by Member Osborn was passed providing a revision of the fees for sewer taps and council recommended that a substantial increase be made and besides voted to revoke all permits already taken out if the taps are not made by Jan. 1, 1921.

Osborn Makes Suggestion

Member Osborn also advocated a plan in favor of spending all money in taxes from newly annexed territory for improvements in the districts from which the funds came but declared that the present financial straits of the city would not permit the giving of city improvements to the new territory at greatly increased cost in excess of the amount received. The auditor was ordered to ascertain the income to the city derived from the new territory and report to council with a view of getting a line on the situation.

The ordinance increasing motion picture theater license fees was referred back to the ordinance committee for revision when it came up for its third reading. Judge Osborn said that it occurred to him that picture shows should not be subjected to a special tax any more than numerous other businesses and he suggested that the ordinance be made more general.

A petition was read from 68 property owners of Mabert Road urging that the thoroughfare be repaired above where the paving will end so that it can be traveled this winter. It was represented that the road is now almost impassable and the petition was referred to the street committee to give some relief.

Attorney Mark Crawford asked council to rescind its former action and grant the Pure Oil company the right to remove a small portion of the flood wall from in front of its filling station near the Scioto bridge, the company to extend and connect the flood wall in the rear of its property. Council indicated it favored granting the request and the matter was referred the solicitor to confer with Mr. Crawford and prepare a written agreement.

Straus Submits Report

Safety Director Si. Straus made a number of recommendations in a written report which he submitted and which follows:

Gentlemen:

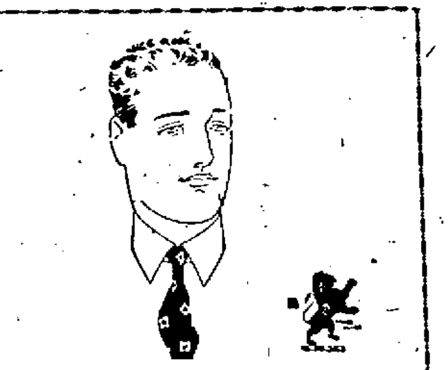

Would recommend that Council pass an ordinance allowing policemen and firemen pay while off duty on account of sickness or disability. This will avoid a great deal of legislation and enable us to pay men without delay. In the case of Fireman James Biggs, Council had to pass a number of resolutions to pay him after the January accident. The state examiner says that it is illegal to pay police or firemen unless Council takes action as above mentioned.

All the Darling Fire Hydrants have been re-threaded to conform with the National Standard. We were furnished with dies by the company without charge. Mr. Wm. Leichenheimer is also installing all fire cistern taps on the inside so that in case of fire in the winter no time will be lost in getting water. Several bad fires have occurred in past years on account of delay caused by taps being covered with ice or snow. The entire hydrant system is being looked after and in the future a frozen hydrant will be a rarity. Hereafter all hose and hydrants should be purchased according to the National Standard. This will avoid the trouble we have had in the past. I recommend that in making water main extensions this clause be inserted, that only approved hydrants can be used. This does not limit us to any one make of hydrants, but there are several good standard makes.

We have written several letters to the Sheridan-Kirk Contract Company and have also mailed them a bill in the amount of $225 for the 250 feet of fire hose loaned them by the fire department on order of Chief Koerner, the same never being returned. No attention has been paid to our letters. The only course left is to enter suit. The solicitor states that this must be done in Cincinnati, as there would be a good deal of expense attached, would ask Council to advise in the matter.

We are entitled under an ordinance passed by Council to engage 12 student nurses at the hospital. We have only had 7 on duty for sometime and at present only 6. We have advertised in Portsmouth and Cincinnati papers, but none fit for service have applied. Would recommend that Council allow us to engage another Graduate Nurse at $1.25 per day in case of emergency such as now exists.

Sciotoville has been annexed and is now a part of Greater Portsmouth and is entitled to police and fire protection. Would recommend that two men be added to the fire department, one for night duty, the other for day. Clothe them with police power and in addition authorize the fire chief to organize a volunteer fire department, purchase a Ford truck mounted with two 40 gallon chemical tanks, ladders, etc. This would give them all the protection needed. In case of a big fire at Sciotoville we would have to go to the river for water and then it would be necessary to send one of our La-France pumpers.

Car Is Stolen From Garage In Broad Daylight

No trace has been found of the Studebaker seven passenger automobile stolen about six o'clock Wednesday morning from W. R. Knapp's garage, 1017 Kinney's Lane. Police and county authorities were notified Wednesday but up to this morning they had been unable to locate the machine or find the least trace of it. It was the property of the Portsmouth Solvay Company and was kept in the Knapp garage.

Mr. Knapp and family are out of the city, Mr. Knapp leaving Tuesday morning for New York City.

The person who took the machine must have known of the family's absence, for it was broad daylight when he opened the garage and drove out the machine.

A wash woman at the Stanley Jones home, 1020 Kinney's Lane, next door to the Knapp home, heard some one taking the machine out, but did not pay any attention, thinking that it was some one from the Solvay plant who had a right to use the machine. The fact that the machine had been stolen was not discovered until a short time later, when a driver from the Solvay plant came to the garage for the car.

The thief who took the Studebaker passed up the new Sedan that was in the same garage, the new car being securely locked. The locks probably baffled the thief, who then satisfied himself by taking the smaller machine.

A telegram was sent to Mr. Knapp Wednesday notifying him of the theft.

Movie Men Decide Not To Contest The Indictments

INFORM COURT OF WILLINGNESS TO ENTER THEIR PLEAS

A sudden halt came in the moving picture men's trial when they appeared in court at nine o'clock this morning. The movie men with their attorneys appeared in court and when court opened the attorneys for the defense withdrew their plea in bar and said they would appear in court at nine o'clock Monday morning to enter pleas to the indictments returned against them last week by the grand jury.

When the plea in bar was withdrawn, it ended the fight the movie men have made to have the indictments thrown aside, their plea being that they could not be tried on the indictments while they were in Municipal court for the same offense.

The withdrawing of the plea by the defense came as a big surprise to the large crowd who were not looking for the defense to "throw up their hands."

It is expected that the trial of the case of the State against George L. Lowe, movie theater proprietor, which started before Judge Thomas and a jury in Common Pleas court Wednesday morning, will be concluded early this afternoon when the case will go to the jury.

The jury will not be required to pass on the guilt or innocence of the defendant of the charge laid in the indictment, which alleges a violation of law by operating his show on Sunday Sept. 26, but to determine the validity of the previous prosecution in Municipal court for the same offense. Attorneys for the defendant contended Lowe's plea of guilty once placed him in jeopardy and is a complete bar to further prosecution. The state challenged this plea by charging that the former prosecution was procured through fraud and collusion and a conspiracy with others to defeat the ends of justice.

The two sessions of court Wednesday were consumed in securing a jury and the hearing of testimony, the state calling witnesses including Theo. K. Funk, who represents the movie men, Joseph W. Booth, who filed the charges in Municipal court, Municipal Clerk F. D. Shonkwiler and Bailiff George Foehr and movie proprietors L. D. Welch, Dallas Howland, J. F. Potts, Francis McDonald and City Attorney S. A. Skelton in an effort to show the alleged conspiracy.

The state had not finished its evidence when the court adjourned for the day.

Attorney Funk on being recalled to the stand stated that he did not draw the affidavits and that they were prepared by Clerk F. D. Shonkwiler. He told of conferring with the movie men on Sept. 25 and of advising them that a plea of guilty to the affidavits in Municipal court would be a bar to further prosecution.

Joseph W. Booth testified that he filed the affidavits on his own initiative after visiting the various theaters on Sunday and gave as an excuse his delay in filing the charges until Tuesday that he was waiting to see if anyone else took any action along the same line. He denied that he had conferred with any of the movie men concerning the charges to be filed or that he had any information that there was something stirring in town shortly before the charges were filed. He strenuously denied anyone requested him to institute the prosecutions.

Clerk Shonkwiler told of preparing the affidavits for Booth during the noon hour and he said that he heard no discussion about Municipal court during the day that the movie prosecutions might be taken care of in another court.

Solicitor Skelton was called to show that the state was not represented when the movie men were arraigned in Municipal court. He said he was not present nor was he consulted in any way concerning the charges.

On cross examination the solicitor stated that it was a custom that in a great number of cases for the court to accept pleas and assess penalties in his absence.

L. G. Welch, Dallas Howland, J. F. Potts and Francis McDonald told of conferring with Attorney Funk on Sept. 28 concerning the filing of charges in Municipal court but denied that their action was inspired by a rumor that the grand jury was in session and would likely investigate their cases. They were all asked by Judge Muir to give the names of their operators and ticket sellers but all refused to answer claiming privilege on the ground that it might incriminate them and the court did not compel them to answer.

Bailiff George Foehr was present when Booth signed the affidavits and he told of going to the Court House after Judge Small shortly before noon at the request of Chief Distel.

Granted Divorce and Alimony

In the divorce petition of May Stockham against Russel Stockham, and the answer and cross petition of Russel Stockham, Judge James S. Thomas has ordered an entry, dismissing the cross petition of Russel Stockham and granting a decree of divorce to Mrs. May Stockham on grounds of extreme cruelty. The entry was made on October second.

By terms of the entry Mrs. Stockham gets the divorce and the custody of the two children except on each Sunday and the last Saturday of each month. She is allowed $20 a week for the maintenance of herself and children. The wife is also given possession of the home and all furniture until her children are of age, and also during her natural life. Mr. Stockham is ordered to keep the residence in repair and pay all taxes, liens and water rents. Stockham is also ordered to pay $300 attorney fee to A. Z. Blair and B. F. ### Hopkins Case Assigned For Trial

The case of the State against Harold Hopkins, West Side young man, indicted on charge of cutting with intent to wound Martin Sommer, Carey's Run young man, during a fight staged on the West Side a few days ago, has been assigned for trial for Wednesday, Oct. 13, before Judge Thomas and a jury in Common Pleas court.

Attorneys Blair and Blair will defend the accused.

Roman Gets Suspended Sentence

John Roman, aged 25 years, Front street steelworker, indicted by the recent grand jury on a charge of larceny in connection with the theft of $120 belonging to Fred Ferguson, appeared before Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court Thursday and withdrew his former plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty. The money was taken from Ferguson's shanty boat following a drinking bout on the night of August 9 last, and Roman claimed he was intoxicated at the time and not responsible for his act. Because this was his first offense, and in view of his military service, Judge Thomas was disposed to be lenient with Roman and gave him a suspended sentence to the Reformatory. The accused was represented by Attorneys Miller & Searl.

Goodman On Trial

Gerald Goodman, West Side man, indicted on a charge of rape with consent upon Stella Gilkes, 14-year-old Nurvon girl, on Aug. 4 last, was brought to trial before Judge Thomas and a jury in Common Pleas court Thursday afternoon.

Otway Woman Granted a Divorce

On the grounds of neglect and cruelty, Alice Redman, Otway woman, was granted a decree by Judge Thomas Thursday, divorcing her from Dyer Redman, whom she married Dec. 27, 1888. The plaintiff was also awarded the custody of their minor children. The case was heard some time ago and continued for further investigation. The wife was represented by Attorney F. T. Moreland and Attorneys Blair and Blair for Redman.

Alleged Forger Arrested

Arrested while he was at work at New Boston steel plant Wednesday afternoon by Sheriff E. W. Pete Bickley, James Webster, aged 23 years, was later turned over to Sheriff Harve Elam, of Greenup, who returned the prisoner to the Greenup county capital to face a charge of alleged forgery.

Webster agreed to accompany the officer back to Kentucky without requisition papers.

Denies Guilt; Will Stand Trial

Ora White, colored, arrested recently at Toledo and returned here on an indictment charging non-support of his minor children, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court Wednesday. In default of bond the defendant was remanded to jail pending his trial which was assigned for next Monday.

New Clerk at Treasurer's Office

Miss Mayme Phillipi has taken a clerical position in the office of County Treasurer Gilbert F. Dodds during the busy season now approaching.

Card to be Brought to Trial

Card's companion, Henry Hunter was recently convicted by a jury on a similar charge and he was sentenced to the Reformatory.

Archie Watkins, another of the alleged gang, will also be tried on Oct. 14 on a charge of petit larceny. Card will be defended by Attorney Theo. K. Funk and Watkins by Attorney Joseph T. Micklethwait.

Nervous Breakdown

"I am so nervous it seems as though I should fly"—"My nerves are all on edge"—"I wish I were dead." How often have we heard these expressions or others quite as extravagant from some loved one who has been brought to this state by some female trouble which has slowly developed until the nerves can no longer stand up under it. No woman should allow herself to drift into this condition without giving that good old-fashioned root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

I was very nervous, tired, could not sleep and could not eat without getting sick. A friend asked me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am sorry I did not take it sooner for it has helped me wonderfully. I don't have to go to bed with the pain, can eat without being sick and have more strength. I have two children, the youngest three months old and it was drudgery to care for them as I felt so irritable and generally worn out. From lack of rest and appetite my baby did not get enough nourishment from my milk so I started to give him two bottle feedings a day. After taking three bottles of Lydia E. # MISS DOLLY WISE

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Miss Wise—I noticed in a recent issue of The Times where "one of the Many Ignorant Women" asked you for information on the league of nations. You simply istructed her to vote the Democratic ticket. Now I am very anxious myself to know what the league of nations means. I care nothing about who is in it, or who is out of it, who is for it, or who is against it. I simply want to know "what is it?" As you say it is to prevent war, and the league is now in session, and war continues. So please explain to me what is the league of nations.

ANOTHER IGNORANT WOMAN.

No, I didn't tell her to vote the Democratic ticket. I simply answered the question she asked me. Men and women should vote for the candidate who will, in their opinion, contribute best to the material and social progress of the state and nation. They should bring to bear upon politics their predilection for righteousness, their desire and their determination that our civilization may conform to the everlasting principles of Christianity. As for the league of nations, it is written in simple and comprehensive phrases. Anyone can understand it. Read it. Cut the coupon out of Wednesday night's paper and send it to Washington and get a copy of the covenant and study it. Then vote the way you think best.

Dearest Dollie—I would like to know if it is proper to send a baby a gift when you receive an announcement of its birth? MRS. R. M.

It is perfectly proper to send, or not to send a gift.

Jackson, Ohio—Dear Miss Wise—Can you tell us who the dark complected man from Portsmouth is who drives a "Baby Grand" Chevrolet. He was driving on the Munn's Run road, Sunday, Sept. 26. TWO JACKSON GIRLS.

Dear Dolly—Please give me the recipe for mangoes peppers. Also tell me what the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. means. Do you know how to make candy? If so, give me the recipe for sea foam, fudge, taffy. CANDY EATER.

I presume you mean filled mangoes [illegible] of ground allspice, four tablespoons of salt; mix thoroughly. Stuff the peppers with the mixture. Y. W. C. A. means Young Women's Christian Association. Sea foam—1½ cups light brown sugar, ½ cup cold water, one teaspoon of vinegar, the white of one egg, ½ cup chopped nut meats. Boil the sugar, water and vinegar until it will form a ball when dropped in cold water. Have the white of the egg beaten to a stiff froth. Pour the syrup into it very slowly, beating constantly. When it begins to cream add the nuts and a drop or two of vanilla. When creamed drop on buttered tins or paraffin paper and cut into squares. If it gets stiff but will not cream, put it into a double boiler and beat constantly. Let the candy stay on the fire until the parts sticking to the edge of the pan begin to look creamy.

Cream Taffy—Two cups of white sugar, ½ cup water, one-third cup vinegar, boil without stirring. When half done add one large teaspoon of butter, before taking from the stove, dissolve ½ teaspoon of soda in a few drops of hot water and pour in. Flavor as desired and pull when sufficiently cool. In pulling candy butter the hands to prevent sticking, being careful not to use too much. For making sticks it is sometimes necessary to flour the hands slightly.

Fudge—Mix three-quarters of a cup of unsweetened chocolate with one cup of milk and two cups of sugar. The chocolate must be grated fine or pounded into small pieces, so that it will dissolve. Boil the mixture, stirring constantly. As soon as it boils hard add a small piece of butter. In 20 minutes it will begin to thicken. Watch it carefully and when the spoon makes a trace on the bottom of the kettle take it off the fire; then quickly put in one teaspoon of vanilla, and beat until thick. Pour into buttered pans in layers about ¾ of an inch thick and cut into squares. The success of fudge lies in its being removed from the fire at the right moment. The same recipe can be prepared with nuts which are chopped fine and put in the same time as the flavoring. English walnuts, pecans or peanuts are the best to use.

Dear Dollie—Please print in your column a recipe for Indian salad and also one for Spanish slaw. P. D. G.

If any one has these recipes will they please phone them in to this department.

If the person who sent me a nickel will call at the office they can have it back, as I do not charge for answering questions.

BILLY WHISKERS

By FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

You must not suppose that Billy Whiskers was a model of good behavior, for he certainly was not that. When he was hungry, he would eat whatever he could get hold of whether it was intended for him or not. He preferred a lettuce bed or a garden generally, but did not draw the line at eating clothes hung out on the line to dry, or going into a pantry, no matter whose, and helping himself to everything in sight.

Of course, tricks of this kind got Billy Whiskers into serious trouble more than once, but he never said much about it and the animals at Cloverleaf Farm either didn't know or wouldn't believe such stories of their Billy even if they had leaked out and been whispered around.

Ever since he had been living at Cloverleaf Farm, which is near Farmersville or "The Corners," as the place was more generally called, Billy had behaved himself, and stopped stealing things to eat, had quit fighting which it must be confessed he dearly loved, and in less than a year had established himself on the friendliest footing not only with his master and mistress and all the children, but likewise with the black cat, the dog, the colt and his mother, as well as the other horses the cows and calves and even Big Red the bull said to be very fierce, also the flock of sheep with Old Buck the leader.

As was stated at first, Billy Whiskers had found life so pleasant of late that he had fully made up his mind to stay where he was as long as he lived. The work he had to do was much to his liking. It consisted mainly in pulling little Die karound the place in his express wagon when Tom or Harry usually did the driving. Now and then the drivers would want to ride, sometimes both of them, when the load would be pretty heavy and more than once, at such times, Billy was tempted to run away as he used to do in his earlier years, upset his load and smash the wagon all to flinders; but he stoutly resisted these promptings of rebellion, knowing well by long experience that it is with goats as it is with boys and girls, better to take things as they come; that it is the hard work now and then, the giving up to others and readiness to do one's share of whatever comes along that tells whether he is made of the right kind of stuff.

So things were moving smoothly with Billy Whiskers and he had no thought of not spending the rest of his life with the Treat family when one June day he heard Tom Treat ask Jack Wright his playmate and chum if he were going to the circus that was coming to Springfield the next week.

A Sure Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If we were transported to the shores of Borneo, we might see a group of natives gathered together under the tropical palms, watching two men sitting on their haunches, facing each other across an earthenware dish containing limewater. Each holds a clam in his raised hand, and at a signal drops it into the limewater. It would not occur to us that this is a court of justice, that the two men leaning over the dish are litigants, and that he whose clam first winces on falling into the limewater loses the case. The people of Borneo believe that their gods give this as a sign to show who is in the right.—Louis Bartlett in Atlantic Monthly

Harrison Says Hays' Claims Are Absurd

CHICAGO, Oct. 7—Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, Chairman of the eastern speakers' bureau of the Democratic national committee today issued a statement delaring Governor Cox would carry Illinois, New York, New Jersey, Indiana and Ohio, in addition to the solid south. As for Maryland and Kentucky, he said there was no doubt but that they would be in the Democratic column. He also predicted that at least ten western states would go Democratic. He described the claims of Will H. Hays, Republican Chairman as absurd saying "it has often been the case that the Republicans won in September but failed to win in November."

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial. — Adv.

Small Wins Nomination In Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., October 7.—Len Small, of Kankakee, won the Republican nomination for governor of Illinois by 7,902 votes from Lieutenant Governor John G. Oglesby, according to figures certified to the state canvasing board by Secretary of State Emmerson. Small's vote was 377,665, Oglesby, 369,103, and Woodruff, 31,505.

William McKinley defeated Frank L. Smith for the Republican nomination for senator by 11,400, the vote being 372,520 for McKinley and 361,120 for Smith.

Judge James T. Burns, of the Cook county court dismissed the petition of Lieutenant Governor Oglesby, asking that the Republican primary vote in Cook county, Chicago, be thrown out, because of alleged frauds in 300 precincts. Judge Burns held he had no jurisdiction.

Mazola—the choice of leading hotels, clubs, and railroad dining cars in America!

WOMEN everywhere are finding out that lard is one of the most unsatisfactory of all cooking fats. It is absorbed into the food, making it heavy, soggy and indigestible at times. So much lard is taken up by the food during cooking that it becomes more expensive to use.

Mazola is 100% pure vegetable oil. It never penetrates into the food, but sears fish or meat over, and preserves all the good flavors. At the same time, it makes the food more digestible.

You too, should use Mazola for all cooking, baking, frying and sautéing purposes.

Thousands of people everywhere use Mazola as a delicious salad dressing, in preference to olive oil or any other vegetable oil. It costs about half what an acceptable grade of olive oil would cost.

Work in Terms of Calories

Light tasks, says the Journal of the A. M. A., such as sewing, crocheting or embroidering, call for an average expenditure of about nine calories an hour more than that of the same person sitting quietly in a chair. Tasks regarded as "harder work" than sewing, such as washing, sweeping or scrubbing, require an increment of at least fifty calories an hour. Government experiments have shown how the mere change in the height of the table at which work is being done may cause an increase of from 20 to 40 per cent in the calories required. This illustrates, to quote the report, the importance of choosing equipment to "fit" the worker.

Why Cat Does Not Get Fat.

Despite the fact that a cat rarely moves, it seldom becomes as fat as a dog would under similar circumstances. This is because its immobility is not that of inaction; its nerves are working while its muscles seem at rest.

HOW TO BE RID OF DANGEROUS DANDRUFF

If you have dandruff you must get rid of it quick — it's positively dangerous and will surely ruin your hair if you don't.

Dandruffy heads mean faded, brittle, scraggly hair that finally dies — new hair will not grow — then you are hairless and nothing can help you.

The sure way to abolish dandruff for good is to destroy the germ that causes it. To do this quickly, safely and without risking a penny get from your druggist a bottle of Parisian Sage. This is guaranteed to banish all dandruff, stop itching scalp and falling hair, and stimulate a new growth, or the cost, small as it is, will be refunded.

Parisian Sage is a scientific preparation that supplies hair needs — an antiseptic liquid neither sticky or greasy, easy to use and daintily perfumed.

PUBLIC'S CUTTING PRICES, IS WORD OF BANK OFFICIAL

Edmund Pratt.

Prices generally are coming down and for the reason that the public and not the government is now in charge of the situation says Edmund Pratt, vice governor of the federal reserve board. Pratt also says that manufacturers must break themselves of the habit of relying on the government to aid them.

The Camel's Foot.

The camel's foot is like a soft cushion, peculiarly well adapted to the gravel and stones over which it is constantly walking. During a single journey through the Sahara, horses have worn out three sets of shoes, while the camel's feet were not even sore.

WRECK ON C. & O., TWO KILLED

Two trainmen were killed and several passengers injured when C. & O. passenger train No. 5, due at South Portsmouth at 5:30 this morning, was wrecked at Ronceverte, W. Va., at 10:30 last night.

Engineer R. D. Womack, of Hinton W. Va., and Mail Clerk G. H. Gurley of Staunton, Va., were killed.

The engine and two coaches left the tracks, the engine turning over. The train was traveling at the rate of about 40 miles an hour when the wreck occurred.

Many passengers were thrown from their seats, but none was seriously hurt.

C. & O. officials are investigating the cause of the wreck.

Food From Many Lands.

A miscellaneous line of food products may be encountered among the stores of the foreign quarters of a great city like New York. There are the black ripened eggs of the Orient. There are sausages little and sausages large, stuffed with oat breadstuff by the Scotch, with butter, lard and whatnot by the Italians. There are the sun-dried devil-fish from Greece, four-inch spreading figs from Smyrna, the jumbo walnuts of Chile and Manchuria — so on and so forth.

The Spider as a Silk Maker.

Successful experiments have been recently made in the island of Madagascar with the use of spider's web in the place of the thread of the silk worm in the manufacture of silk. It is claimed that a fabric has been made from the spider's thread that is far superior in many respects to anything that has ever been devised.

Wood From Dead Trees.

Wood that is cut from sound dead trees—is it as good as wood cut from live ones? Many buyers are prejudiced against dead wood, but there seems to be no reason for it. The Forest Products Laboratory says that there is no way of distinguishing the dead from the live after the trees are sawed into lumber. Of course, dead trees that have been allowed to stand too long are apt to become decayed or infested by wood-boring insects. But trees that have been dead only a short time yield strong, lasting lumber.—Popular Science Monthly.

West Will Vote For Harding

do more for the League of Nations after November 2 than they are doing now.

Thus while the writer leaves the west with a feeling that Senator Harding has the lead and with a suspicion that the reaction across the Mississippi River has grown to be so great that even Senator Penrose himself could carry the west this year, there is every reason to be optimistic about the future support that will be given by the west to the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations. So far as the west is concerned, it will vote for Harding but by no means will repudiate the covenant of the League. Many Republican newspapers whose hearts are with the League of Nations have already made that statement so that the verdict may not be misconstrued. President Wilson is still as much represented as ever west of the Mississippi but he has lost his hold on the voters. His failing health aroused here and there considerably sympathy but the knowledge that he is not a vigorous leader in his party has caused the voters to examine carefully the new leadership.

They do not attribute to Governor Cox the same high ideals that they did once to Wilson. They see no Bryan going from state to state preaching and crusading as he did in 1916. They see a sulky Nebraskan calling Cox a "wet" and charging that he was nominated by the bosses in the Democratic party. They see too many original Wilson and McAdoo men going about their business without political emotion. Most of these Democrats will vote for Cox but they are not throwing themselves into the fight as they did in 1916 though in some states like California it is the McAdoo organization which is putting up the fight for Cox and doing well. Unquestionably William Gibbs McAdoo would have carried more western states than Governor Cox will. The Democrats out west were for him as the numerous ballots at the San Francisco convention will show. Furthermore, McAdoo has been and is bone dry and the Anti-Saloon League endorsed him. There is doubt about Cox and while he will benefit to some extent by a spirit of wetness that still prevails in some parts of the west, his stand on the liquor question has not been sufficiently clear cut to make the women voters believe that he will stand with them absolutely in what they regard as the big moral issue of the day. Governor Cox might have made his campaign in the west a crusade by taking the bone-dry side of the argument and emphasizing the League of Nations to the exclusion of criticism of the Republican candidate's supposed reactionary views. To call a man a reactionary is one thing, to prove that he is may be quite another. Governor Cox made some headway on this issue but it is not vitally controlling this year as it was in 1916. The phrases "progressive" and "reactionary" have been lost in a maze of irritations all of which yield only the one cry—Let's get back to normal no matter whether we do it by a reactionary or anybody else. Taxation is a sore spot.

The Democrats failed to show how neglectful the last Republican congress of the demand of the president for a revision of the tax law.

Most people hold the Democrats responsible. So poor are the Democratic organizations, so weak in publicity and funds that the mass of voters have not been told anything about the two years legislation. The tariff is bobbing up again in many states but is not being intelligently argued. Nor is much being said by the Democrats about the desire of certain Republican interests to change the Federal Reserve system as soon as a Republican administration comes into power. Some undercurrents of apprehension are to be found even among western Republicans that the eastern wing of the party may attempt again to get control of the nation's credit in a few eastern hands but the same western Republicans are confident of their own power to frustrate such a plan. It would have been a big issue in the west if the Democrats had been awake to its possibilities. If the Democratic campaign in the east is no better than it is in the west, the jig is up, the campaign is over. But the month of October is the time when drifts set in and desperate efforts are made, sometimes successfully. Charles E. Hughes was elected early in October but was defeated at the end of the month despite an eleventh hour drive. The Democrats have learned from sources unquestionably friendly to them that there isn't a chance of winning the campaign by a combination of western and southern states as four years ago, and that the big electoral votes in the east alone can avert defeat.

(The writer will visit in the order named the states of Maryland, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Kentucky, Indiana, West Virginia and Ohio and will present a summary in the four days preceding election day.)

EN ROUTE WITH GOVERNOR COX, October 7.—With a number of speeches through Kentucky and Tennessee, Governor Cox, of Ohio, today resumed his personal speaking campaign, to continue virtually until election day.

Opening his Kentucky campaign with an early morning address at Elizabethtown, the Democratic presidential candidate was to spend several hours for an extended address at Bowling Green this afternoon and be the center figure of a mass meeting tonight at Nashville, Tennessee. Several rear platform addresses today also were contemplated and tomorrow the governor will visit more Kentucky cities, ending his tour of the "blue "blue grass" state tomorrow night at Louisville.

The League of Nations was brought into Kentucky by the governor as the pre-eminent issue to be championed by Democracy and thrust at the opposition.

conflicting opinions among the people and among the members of the senate upon the subject. These opinions must be reconciled and harmonized if we are to have any international association at all.

"I shall not risk embarrassing the final solution of a problem so momentous by undertaking to lay down in advance specific details of plans.

"As soon as possible after my election I shall advise with the best minds in the United States and especially I shall consult in advance with the senate, with whom, by the terms of the constitution, I shall indeed be bound to counsel and without whose consent no such international association can be formed. ## Scrap the Legue, Says Harding

"I do not want any one to be misled. I will have no man's vote under a misunderstanding and I am equally determined, if I can prevent it that my opponent shall have no man's vote upon a misunderstanding. My position I think, has been made perfectly plain but whether it has or not, his position is beyond cavil, and it is that we shall go into the Paris league without modification or substantial qualification. To such a betrayal of my countrymen I will never consent. To those who desire to incur the hazard of entrusting any of the powers of the republic to the direction of a super-government, or, if you prefer, to a council of foreign powers, whether the obligation to follow the council's direction be one of legal or of moral compulsion, I frankly say vote the Democratic ticket and pray God to protect you against the consequences of your folly.

"We have been told that we must ratify the proposed covenant in order to become a member of the league and that if we do not, we shall be obliged to stand with hat in hand and sue for admission hereafter. He who presents such a humiliating picture is singularly blind to the facts. We stand almost alone among the great nations in a disinterested relation to the problems of the world. Because of this the world is ready to recognize our moral leadership. Because we are not vitally concerned in the conflicting interests of Europe, because we are independent, because we are able to approach the solution of the questions which continually threaten the peace of Europe as an unprejudiced and impartial rather than as an interested party, the world will be glad to have us formulate the policy and point the way.

"Surely we have suffered enough from the autocratic assumption of personal wisdom, which will neither take counsel nor learn from experience. To formulate a plan of international cooperation is a task of no small difficulty. There are many and

PRESIDENT DENIES PLEDGING U. S. AID TO ROUMANIA AND SERBIA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7—President Wilson today telegraphed Senator Spencer, Republican, of Missouri, that he was content to let the voters of Missouri decide which of them was telling the truth. The telegram responds to the senator's charge that the president had promised military aid to Roumania and Serbia which the president yesterday declared was false.

KANSAS CITY, MO., Oct. 7—Senator Reed, in a telegram to United States Senator Spencer, asserted that President Wilson had made a statement pledging American aid to Roumania and Serbia in an address at the peace conference on May 31, 1919.

The address did not pass censor until December 3, 1919, when it was brought to this country by a newspaper correspondent and placed in the Washington Star on that date. The speech also appeared in full in the Congressional Record on December 4, 1919, the telegram stated.

Senator Reed's telegram was sent in response to one asking information on the subject.

Senator Reed's telegram urged the president to produce the stenographic record of the peace conference "to show just what was said."

STRICKEN AT FUNERAL

George Pfeiffer, well known undertaker, suffered a badly injured shoulder Wednesday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock, when he had a fainting spell and fell to the sidewalk on Waller street, in front of the Second Presbyterian church. He had just left the church and was on his way to the hearse when he suffered a pain in his shoulder and pitched forward to the sidewalk. He was carried to the home of Judge A. Z. Blair, a short distance away, and there he was attended by Drs. J. S. Rardin and W. D. Schafer. Mr. Pfeiffer was unconscious for some time, but restoratives were administered by the physicians and he revived before being removed home in Daehler's ambulance.

This morning he was complaining of pains in his shoulder.

Railroad Men Are Laid Off; Business Slumps

CINCINNATI, O., October 7.—More than two hundred railroad men have been dismissed from the service within the last two weeks in Cincinnati, because a slump in the movement of freight created a condition in which railroads had many more men than were necessary to handle the decreased volume of business, according to operating officials.

Approximately 7,000 loads of freight move out of Cincinnati or pass through this terminal every day under normal conditions. Figures obtained from the terminal manager's office show that the movement during the past week has averaged approximately 5,000 loads daily.

Representative shippers of Cincinnati, discussing the situation, declared that the freight slump is the result of the moral effect the cut in automobile prices has had on business in general.

DECATUR, Ill., October 7.—An announcement was made here today by the Wabash Railroad Company that 525 employes of its mechanical department would be taken off the pay roll October 12. The cut affects about 200 men here. A general slump in business was assigned by officials as the cause for the lay off, the duration of which is indefinite. High cost of labor was also given as a reason for the reduction.

Working People--Business People--Tax Payers

KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK. THE RESPONSE HAS BEEN MOST GRATIFYING

WE ARE PLEASED to announce that many of the local friends of COX, DONAHEY and JULIAN --both MEN and WOMEN-- have heeded our call for assistance.

WORKING PEOPLE are ready to help. They realize that COX, DONAHEY and JULIAN are their proven friends.

BUSINESS PEOPLE favor these candidates because they recognize that they are EXPERIENCED, ECONOMICAL and ENERGETIC.

TAX-PAYERS IN OHIO are especially alert this year. They prefer the methods of JUDSON HARMON, JAMES M. COX and VIC DONAHEY to the wild extravagances of WILLIS and HARRY L. DAVIS. OHIO has no bonded debt and no floating debt. Contrast this with the HARRY L. DAVIS administration in CLEVELAND. In four short years he raised CLEVELAND'S BONDED INDEBTEDNESS from 47 MILLION TO 83 MILLION. ITS FLOATING DEBT was over 5 MILLION last year and will ALMOST DOUBLE that figure in 1920.

WE KNOW that the intelligent men and women of Portsmouth want to approve COX, DONAHEY and JULIAN. But they must realize that after today, there will be only TWO MORE days to register—next Friday and Saturday, October 15 and 16. YOU MUST REGISTER OR YOU CANNOT VOTE.

DUE TO LACK OF SLUSH FUNDS, the Democratic battle for the people must be waged by volunteers. Since our first appeal in Monday's Times many persons have come to our headquarters to enlist in this service. We still have several precincts where we are shy of workers. This service can be undertaken by both men and women with very little inconvenience. COME TO DEMOCRATIC HEADQUARTERS, Second Floor of the Kricker building on the Sixth street side and we will tell you how you can help. Come any hour, day or evening.

WE WILL be glad to give our new voters any instructions they desire. We have literature on the records of all the candidates, full copies of the League of Nation's covenant, also pictures, badges, etc.

COX, DONAHEY and JULIAN are courageously fighting for the people's cause—against the apostles of reaction and special privilege. Let's back them up with every thoughtful, fair minded voter in our county.

COUPLE AGREE TO MAKE UP

John E. Davis and Anna Davis of Twelfth street who were taken into custody by the police Tuesday night after they had had their first domestic split-up explained their difficulties to Judge Small in Court Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Davis being arrested in a charge of carrying concealed weapons while the husband answered to a charge of disorderly conduct.

The trouble started Monday morning when Mrs. Davis left her husband she claiming that she could not live with him when he had two or three drinks of whiskey. She went to work at the Shephard restaurant where the husband called Monday night and raised a row she says. According to the wife he had made threats to harm her and when she started to work Thursday afternoon she carried a small revolver. Davis met her on Eleventh street and took the gun away from her and turned it over to George East of Findlay and Eleventh streets. The police investigated the revolver trouble and later filed charges and arrested the couple.

Mrs. Davis said that she did not conceal the weapon but carried it in her open hand but that she did not intend to shoot her husband for he was a good man when he was sober. Davis pleaded guilty to the disorderly conduct charge admitting he used bad language at the restaurant.

Judge Small told the couple to talk matters over while other cases were tried and at the close of the court session the couple explained they had talked things over and were going to live together again. On Davis' promise to leave whiskey alone Judge Small dismissed the charges.

Borah Attacks Wilson's Statement On Article 10

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 7.—Senator Wm. E. Borah of Idaho in an address here made vigorous attack on President Wilson's recent statement on Article Ten of the league covenant. He declared that if this government refused to take up arms to aid a country in the league which was invaded by an enemy "the United States steps out discredited and dishonored and the seeds of war are scattered broadcast."

"The president's last letter to the public informs us that Article Ten does not interfere with right of congress to declare war or not to declare war," said Senator Borah. "I can't conceive of but one way that congress could get out of declaring war in case of the invasion of territory of a member of the league and that would be to violate and wholly disregard the plain terms of the treaty, and to rend in pieces the league covenant itself.

"The president has said heretofore upon a very solemn occasion that Article Ten constitutes a supreme moral obligation upon the part of our nation, which moral obligation, he declared to be more binding than an obligation of law or contract. Congress is but an agent of the nation and in refusing to carry out a solemn promise would brand our whole people with dishonor and moral turpitude."

Was Forced To Give Up Trade As Moulder

"Since taking Tanlac I eat better, sleep better and work better and I feel just fine," said John Groe, living at 920 Chicago avenue, Youngstown, a few days ago. Mr. Groe has been a resident of Youngstown for over forty years. He was a molder by trade for twenty-seven years, but four years ago was compelled on account of his health to seek lighter work, and he is now employed by the Youngstown Dry Goods Company. His statement follows:

"I enjoyed as good health as any man up to about four years ago, when my stomach seemed to go back on me. I lost my appetite and never ate any breakfast. The little I managed to force down at dinner and supper caused gas to form on my stomach and I had awful dizzy spells. I had throbbing headaches, especially on getting up every morning. I felt tired, dull and weak all the time and I really was in no shape to work, so I had to give up my trade as a molder and get a lighter job. I tried all kinds of medicines, but nothing did me any good.

"I heard so many good things about Tanlac that I decided to give it a trial. I have taken four bottles of this medicine, and the change that has come over me is really wonderful. I have a big appetite now and can eat anything I want without any bad after affects. I sleep all night every night, and feel fine when I wake up in the mornings. I never have a headache or dizzy spell now, and am just brimful of new life and energy. My strength has been increased wonderfully, and I have gained seven pounds in weight. I look so much better that my friends are all noticing it. I am recommending Tanlac every opportunity I have."

Tanlac is sold in Portsmouth by the Fisher and Streich Pharmacy and the leading druggists in every town. Adv

We are glad lumber has been one of the first important commodities to come down and believe it will give a decided impetus to building operations which have been checked by rising costs and poor transportation.

As building material merchants, we consider it our privilege and pleasure to serve the prospective builder and make his interest ours. You may rest assured, we will give you the benefit of any declining market prices, even though in some instances, we may sacrifice profits. Just now, when all dealers, who are faithful to their trust, are striving to bring the high cost of living, also high cost of housing, down, we will consider profits a secondary matter and you may rest assured WE WILL GIVE YOU THE BENEFIT OF ALL REDUCTIONS, whether they be brought about by general or local conditions.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 7—Few tickets for the world's series games between the Cleveland Indians and Brooklyn Dodgers have fallen into the hands of scalpers, as a result of the precautions taken by the Cleveland baseball club. No tickets for reserved or box seats ... by the baseball management ... to those who held allotment cards issued by the club, the signatures on which correspond to that on the application for seats. Persons fortunate enough to secure reserved seats were compelled to purchase two ... for four games.

FAMOUS MOVIE FAMILY RETURNS HOME

When the popular Talmadge sisters recently returned from abroad they created no little excitement on board ship by their beauty and new French wardrobes. Of course they wore the new round-toed French slippers and the shockingly short French skirts and they carried canes which is the very latest fad in Paris. The photograph shows Constance, Norma and Natalie in the costumes they wore upon the day of their arrival in New York. Chic? N' est ce pas?

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 7- Mixed buying and selling orders, chiefly in rails and oils, accounted largely for the further irregularity of prices at the opening of today's stock market. An early gain in Southern Pacific of 1 5-8 was offset by a loss of as much in Royal Dutch. Texas and Pacific, yesterday's weakest feature, rallied slightly at the outset, only to fall back almost immediately while Reading gave promise of extending its recent advance. Crucible Steel, Baldwin locomotive, American tobacco and retail stores were among the other firm to strong issues.

Shorts attacked the list from almost every quarter during the morning, effecting variable and in some instances [illegible] declines among industrials, [illegible] low priced rails and specialties. Steels, equipments, motors [illegible] fell 1 to 2 points and Reading [illegible] minor rails lost 1 to 1½. Sears [illegible] dropped seven points on rumors that lower dividends may accompany the new financing. The market [illegible] fitfully before noon in response to demand for dividend paying rails, [illegible] Atchison, Great [illegible], New York Central, Lehigh [illegible] and Chesapeake and Ohio [illegible] rose 1 to 2 points. The money [illegible] was unchanged, call loans [illegible] at 7 percent.

Jade Prized in the East.

In China a string of jade beads is now used as an insignia of high rank and authority. At one time, it is said, no other than a prince of the royal blood had the right to possess jade in India, under pain of death. In China the jade is termed the concentrated essence of love. It is an ornament often bestowed upon young girls when they come of age. When fashioned in the form of a butterfly it has a special romantic significance to the Chinese because of the pretty legend which relates that a youth pursuing a butterfly climbed over the high wall and into the garden of a rich mandarin. Instead of being censored or punished, the poor youth's visit led to his marriage with the mandarin's daughter. Hence the butterfly is the symbol of successful love, and Chinese bridegrooms present jade butterflies to their fiancees.

Feet Identify Porto Rican Classes.

The people of the island of Porto Rico are divided into four categories for the purpose of identification, according to the shape of their feet. The division is made by the American chief of the insular police. The minority, mostly town dwellers, wear shoes. Of the great mass of countrymen, those with broad, flat feet live in the cane lands around the coast. The coffee men have overdeveloped big toes, because they use them in climbing the steep hillsides from brush to brush. In the tobacco districts, according to Harry A. Franck, writing in Century, where the planting is done with the feet, they are short and stubby.

Boy Scouts Plan For Their Basketball Season

The Patrol Leaders of the Boy Scouts held a meeting at Scout Headquarters last night and laid plans for the basket ball season of 1921.

It was decided to have three leagues instead of two, as last year, and the height was set at 5 ft., 3 in. and under for the Bantam; 5 ft., 7 in. and under for the Junior, and any height for the Boy Scout League. Assistant Scoutmasters were permitted to play in the Boy Scout League, provided they had attended eight meetings between now and the opening of the basket ball season, but not more than two Assistant Scoutmasters were to play on one team at a time.

The most important rule passed was that of allowing only Scouts who have attended 75 percent or more of the meetings between Oct. 7 and the opening of the season to play. Only second class Scouts will be allowed to play in the Junior and Boy Scout Leagues, but Tenderfeet will be allowed to play in the Bantam.

Regular players on both the Sciotoville and Portsmouth High School teams will be barred from playing on Boy Scout teams.

How Weather Affects Brain.

Most persons have wondered at times why it is that their moods depend so much on the weather. A crisp, frosty day makes one feel cheerful and energetic. A damp, dull one tends to cause depression and listlessness. Dull, rainy weather means a low barometer. When the barometer is low the reduced pressure of the atmosphere lets the blood vessels near the surface of the skin dilate or swell, and so take up more than their share of blood. This makes the brain anaemic and the flow of ideas come slowly.

Franklin Pierce was the second "dark horse" in a presidential race. Not until the thirty-fifth ballot was the name of Franklin Pierce brought before the convention. Then, Virginia cast her 15 votes for him, and he was nominated on the forty-fifth ballot.

BROOKLYN HAS EVEN CHANCE TO COP SERIES

PENNY ANTE — Welcome Stranger

Burleigh Grimes' masterly pitching carried the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 3-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians in the second game of the world's series at Ebbett's Field Wednesday, evening up the series. Bagby started the game for the Indians but was replaced by Uhle in the eighth to allow Graney to enter the game as a pinch hitter.

Brooklyn scored in the first inning as the result of Johnston's single and Wheat's double to center. The second score came in the following inning as the result of Grimes' single, Bagby's wild throw and Griffith's two-bagger into right field. The final tally for the Robins came in the fifth inning on Olson's single and Sewell's error of Griffith's hot grounder.

The closest the Cleveland team came to scoring was in the eighth inning when Grimes struck a short wild spell and passed Jamieson, Burns and Gardner but [illegible] and ended the rally.

Speaker, Gardner and Griffith were the batting stars of the game, the Cleveland players both getting two safe [illegible] in three trips to the plate while Griffith [illegible] two in four.

Grimes held the Cleveland team to seven scattered hits while the Dodgers garnered the same number off Bagby in six frames. When Uhle replaced Bagby in the sixth he held Brooklyn scoreless for three frames.

Wheat, Gardner, Griffith and Speaker grabbed doubles.

Mails and Smith, both southpaws, will probably [illegible] with their portside [illegible] in today's game. The two teams clash [illegible] Saturday.

Brooklyn now has an even chance to cop the series.

WILLAMAN HURT

Frank Willaman, Ohio State's star fullback, will be out of the game for several weeks because of injury received in practice Wednesday.

He has been handicapped all season by a weak knee and his loss to the team will weaken the offensive power of the Scarlet and Gray team. Coach Wilce is hoping that the giant fullback will be able to get back in the game for the Home Coming game with Purdue, when it is expected that 20,000 Ohio State graduates from all over the United States will be in attendance, but it is doubtful, as that game is scheduled for a week from Saturday, October 16.

Willaman was a member of the 1917 and 1919 Buckeye elevens.

NEW YORKERS DROP HUGE BANK ROLL

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—District Attorney Swann announced today he had obtained the names of two New York men who lost $75,000 in bets upon the Chicago Americans in the 1919 world series by another New Yorker, who the district attorney declared, was the ringleader in "fixing" games. One of the men lost $60,000 and the other $15,000 it was said.

"Two men who lost money and lost heavily, are known to me, and I can't persuade them to come here and tell me or the grand jury about it," District Attorney Swann said. "Both say they were persuaded by this 'master mind' to place bets, and that they lost and he won. But they both tell me they know about the games being fixed."

Mr. Swann declared he had been unable to get any witnesses for the grand jury investigation although he is seeking Abe Attell, former featherweight champion boxer, and two others. He said he had received no word from Arnold Rothstein.

"I have direct information that Rothstein always bet on Cincinnati and always won," the district attorney asserted, "and that all bets on the Chicago team were at his suggestion."

THESE UMPIRES ARE "CALLING 'EM" IN WORLD'S SERIES

These are the four men who are calling balls and strikes, "out" and "safe" in the classic being staged by the Brooklyn Dodgers and Cleveland Indians. Two of these men will umpire behind the plate and on the bases each day as usual. The other two will be stationed on the right and left field foul lines to call close decisions on balls hit to the outfield.

Brooklyn Pitchers Living Up To Advance Notices

A glance at the box score of Wednesday's game reveals the secret of Brooklyn's victory. Although both teams secured seven safeties, the Brooklyn hits came at the time when they were most needed, while the Cleveland batters displayed an inability to hit, when hits meant runs.

Cleveland had ten men left on bases which clearly shows the failing yesterday of the Cleveland sluggers. Brooklyn had only four, thus marooned. The only error of the game was charged up to Bagby.

The Brooklyn nine had 27 put-outs and 12 assists to 2 and 9 respectively for the Indians.

The Cleveland sluggers have not shown any of the tremendous hitting thus far in the series that they showed throughout the season, although Speaker and Gardner gathered two safeties in yesterday's contest.

Thus far in the series, the two teams combined have secured only 24 safe hits.

BELIEVE CHILLICOTHE HAS BEEN HEADQUARTERS OF BOLD THIEVES

CHILLICOTHE, O., October 7.—The arrest today of R. T. Davis and Alfred Kellhoefer, both of this city, on charges of unlawfully selling large quantities of cigarettes, brought announcement from police that they believe Chillicothe has been headquarters of a gang of freight thieves whose activity in the last year have caused the N. & W. railroad a loss of over $50,000. Today's arrest followed indictment yesterday of three Columbus youths on charges of having stolen cigarettes from a car near here.

Warrants for the arrest of Davis and Kellhoefer were issued at Circleville, north of here on the N. & W., where it is alleged that Davis sold 80,000 cigarettes to a firm and Kellhoefer also disposed of thirty thousand. Arraigned there the men waived examination and were bound over to the grand jury in sums of three thousand dollars.

The car from which the merchandise sold by these men was alleged to have been taken, pulled into Cleveland, Ohio, one day last week, with a hole cut in the top of the car. The goods were traced when the consignee's name was found on one of the cases bought from Davis. The consignee is a Cleveland firm.

Meanwhile, Lambert, Frazier and Conrad, the Columbus men arrested Tuesday, are still in the county jail, where they received a severe grilling, Wednesday morning. All stuck vigorously to their original stories, though each told a different version.

Bond for the men was fixed by Judge Goldsberry, Wednesday, on motion of the defendant's counsel Lambert's bond was fixed at $1,000, while that of Frazier and Conrad is $1,500.

Ruth Says Great Majority Of Players Honest

"The great majority of baseball players are honest, clean players and good sports," said "Babe" Ruth colossus of swat, when asked his opinion of the big baseball scandal.

"Baseball is a good game and too wholesome to be spoiled by a few dishonest players and gamblers," Ruth said. "I think the American public realizes that it is but the mistakes of a few that are now attracting the public attention. But the people should not forget that the majority of players are square and honest in their playing.

"For my own part, I hope the whole business is sifted down to rock-bottom and every player, no matter how good a performer he may be, receives the punishment he deserves if found guilty. That is the only way the public confidence can be restored."

Let no one assume that because the mind is still intangible—and probably always will be to mortal man—that psychology is impracticable. Friday, Oct. 8—Royals vs. Tramps, Play House.

Friday, Oct. 8—Mutuals vs. Brummels, Pennant Alleys.

The Waltons, captained by O. C. Sprague, maintained their winning gait in the Masonic Bowling League, and still have a clean record, by capturing three in a row from the Auroras, despite the terrific coaching of Captain Edward Leach, at the Play House alleys, last evening. The Auroras might have done better had they been represented by a full team, but two "Blinds" spoiled all the chance they had of winning. Dr. Tatje was high man of the frames, getting a total of 514 and high score 214. His middle game was characteristic of Dillon, but the doctor expects that to be the last time he will roll under the 150 mark, in a single game. Earl Clare, anchor man for the Waltons, shot for a total of 496, his strike ball not being in working order. Dallas Lemon, of the Auroras, was in fine form, shooting for an average of 161. Californians like to think of San Francisco as the Paris of American fashion, and it might truly be called that if the starting of fads has anything to do with the name. It was San Francisco which decreed that milady, to be ultra smart must devote her thoughts to quality, not quantity. The weighing of lingerie and stockings was the outgrowth of this idea. The standard weight for lingerie and hose has been set by fashion experts at one and one-quarter ounces. Mrs. Profiteer, says "Beachcomber," in the Daily Express, was very proud of the strides they were doing at the smart private school to which she had sent her daughter. "My dear," she said to her friend, "she's learning civics, if you please." "What's civics?" asked the friend. "Civics? My dear, don't you know? Why, it's the science of interfering in public affairs."

Feet.

To dream you have your feet denotes trouble in collecting money which is due you. To dream of large or deformed feet foretells a journey which will cost you many tears. To scratch the bottom of your feet denotes treachery and flattery. To have no feet at all is an evil omen; it foretells some great calamity. Cold feet foretells a quarrel with a friend.

BOTH SINGLE AND SINGULAR

BOSTON has started out a crusade against the high cost of living. It is a great movement. Boston admits it herself and she is generously backed in her self esteem by a lot of papers and publicists, who think it is popular to join in the hue and cry, or else believe all the afflictions that man is heir to come from the high cost of living—in one sole direction— and that eliminated all evils will go along with it.

Boston's wonderful invention takes the form of banker, lawyer, typewriter, business man and clerk taking their noon day meal to the office or store in a basket, or paper, instead of getting a smack at a profiteering lunch counter.

Now wonderful, indeed, isn't it! Yes, so wonderful that it could originate in no other place than in the mighty brain of a Bostonese and certainly find no wide exemplification in practice, except in the place made famous by the introduction of the baked bean.

But, notice, it begins at the same place, on food—save food and all else will get cheaper. Ninety-nine and nine-tenths of the prosecutions and the campaigns have been directed against the same center and they have all failed, as this latest one will, because it deserves to fail. Food is the cheapest part of an individual's living today. It is higher than it was a matter of two or three times back, but it doesn't show half the percentage rise that most everything else does. Things don't grow a bit cheaper than they used to. Time was when a farmer could hire all the help he wanted for a dollar a day and board, now if he be fortunate enough to find anyone that will hire at all, he has to pay him $4 a day and board. He could buy a wheat drill for $75, now it costs him $185. It is that way all along the line in his productive activities.

A farmer works 365 days a year. Not exactly a full day on Sundays, but he gets in enough overtime on the others to make that up and some.) Not one in ten of the thousands in Scioto county can show cash receipts three hundred dollars a year, above the cost of primitive necessities, not counting his food. Nine men out of every ten in Portsmouth, who work steadily in any way here in Portsmouth can do better than that.

It is foolish and unjust to make him, at least by indirection bear the chief brunt of all this kicking about the high cost of living, especially, when if most of us didn't live so high there would be scant room or impulse to kick.

AN ESTABLISHED FACT

ALL the legal proceedings having been effectively carried out, and order of the county commissioners, entered Tuesday, attached the territory theretofore included in the corporate village of Sciotoville, to Portsmouth and the same is now an integral part of the city.

The addition of this territory and that which lies between, excepting the village of New Boston, extends the limits of Portsmouth from the Big to the Little Scioto rivers, and gives her a population somewhat inexcess of 36,000. These figures, however, will not appear in the census as annexation and the consequent increase of inhabitants did not take place until sometime after the census count.

Here we are reminded that, after all things move quickly in this life. It was about six years ago that the purpose to extend the city limits of Portsmouth was born of an article in The Times, raising the popular idea of a "Greater Portsmouth—from the Big to the Little Scioto." Though to some it seemed rather far fetched at the time, it is now a reality. Of course, there is some glory in a substantial gain in population, but the excessence of the achievement is that it provides for the future, makes sure that the increase the city is bound to have in the future will be definitely and officially fixed as her's.

We talk so much about the advance of Portsmouth that we rather overlook the fact that Scioto county is growing too. do not recognize the high position she holds as compared with the other eight-eight counties of the state. Among them she now stands seventeenth in population on the 1920 census, having passed Licking and Muskingum. Not all appears in that because her percentage gain was far better than several others on whose heels she is now closely pressing.

Neither Senator Harding nor Governor Cox is a college graduate, but one of them is expected to receive a degree from the electoral college.

Mrs. Charlie Chaplin says her husband never did anything except think, which only proves that conclusions formed from the screen may be erroneous.

Presidential Campaigns

By Frederic J. Haskin

The Harrison-Cleveland Race of 1888.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 1— Grover Cleveland was elected president the first time because of his views on the tariff question. Because he was too insistent upon the expression of the same views he was defeated for re-election in 1888. Mr. Cleveland was the only president who ever devoted an entire annual message to congress to the discussion of one subject. The Fiftieth Congress was the second of Mr. Cleveland's first term, and the Democratic majority in the house had been re-elected, while the Republican majority in the senate had been diminished.

The president believed that the result of the 1886 elections meant that the people wished to carry out his ideas on the tariff. Therefore he devoted his entire annual message to the tariff, discussing nothing else and placing the tariff question in a position of paramount importance never before occupied by any issue in the legislative history of the country. That message was prepared and sent against the advice of the leaders of the party. It did not meet with the reception hoped for, and the tide turned against the Democrats. But even with that compilation in the way, Cleveland would have been re-elected but for the treachery of Tammany Hall.

The Republican candidate was Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana—grandson of William Henry Harrison, "Old Tippecanoe," and great grandson of a Virginia signer of the Declaration of Independence, a direct descendant of Pocahontas, and connected with all of the prominent old families of colonial days. He was the first successful candidate for president since Zachary Taylor, who might claim to be of "aristocratic" lineage.

Memories of the famous "Tippecanoe" campaign were revived by ardent Republicans, while factious Democrats poked fun at the candidate. They were pleased to call him the soldier grandson of the giant grandfather's hat. Every cartoonist accepted the "grandfather's hat" as the badge of Harrison's candidacy. As a result, the campaign of 1888 became a campaign of hats.

A Campaign of Hats

The Republican marching clubs and "rooters" affected big hats of the bee hive variety such as were worn by Grandfather "Tippecanoe" Harrison in the campaign of 1840. The Democrats adopted the white felt "topper" which was a favorite with Mr. Cleveland. All over the country rural Democrats who would have fainted at the notion of a black silk top-hat, bought the white "Cleveland hats" and wore them summer and winter, day and night. The Democratic candidate for vice president was Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio, whom men loved to call the "Old Roman." Senator Thurman's inseparable companion was a red bandana handkerchief. So to the white top-hat, every loyal Democrat added the equipment of a red bandana. Then he was ready to hike and harrah and harangue for Cleveland and Thurman.

The campaign of 1888 was a vast improvement over the scandal-mongering contest of four years before. Mr. Cleveland had gained the respect of the country by his administration of affairs, whether he had its approval or not. Mr. Harrison had both the respect and confidence of the country. The campaign was conducted with great dignity. The rivalry between the parties was sharp, there were many doubtful states and in none of them was victory for either side overwhelming. It was however, a battle of parties and not of candidates. The tariff issue was a real issue. Neither of the candidates appealed to the enthusiasm of the masses of their followers. There was no great popular outburst for either one. It was the coldest of the four presidential contests.

The First Porch Campaign

Benjamin Harrison was one of the ablest of the men who have occupied the White House. His state papers are fit to rank with the best in the archives of the Republic, not excepting those issued by Washington, Jefferson or John Quincy Adams. His administration was far from tranquil, yet its sharpest conflicts arose from the fact that Harrison, in the interest of the whole people, opposed the schemes of certain of his party leaders, advocates of the interests of a very few.

Better campaign speeches have never been made than those which Benjamin Harrison delivered at his home in Indianapolis, originating the "front porch" campaign system. Other candidates had spoken from their verandas, but Harrison was the first who did it systematically and to whose home special trains brought thousands of excursionists every week. That these excursions were often made up with free passes and paid delegations, for the effect the reports of the tremendous outpouring would have on distant states, is undoubtedly true, but politics was becoming advanced in that day.

Harrison won his nomination in the Republican convention as the choice of those elements opposed to the nomination of John Sherman of Ohio. Sherman went into the convention with more than twice as many votes as his next highest competitor, Walter Q. Gresham, of Indiana. Third in the race was Chauncey M. Depew, of New York, fourth was General Russell A. Alger, of Michigan, fifth was Benjamin Harrison, sixth was William B. Allison, of Iowa, and then a dozen other smaller ones, each of whom hoped to be the successful "dark horse." James G. Blaine, "The Henry Clay of the Republican party" wanted the nomination. But he had written letters saying he wouldn't take it, and although he wavered and wabbled in his messages to his friends, he finally cabled from Europe that he was not in the race. His state voted for him to the last, notwithstanding his withdrawal.

Quay's Methods

Cleveland and Thurman were nominated without any serious opposition. Tammany Hall still hated Cleveland, but there was no open opposition in the convention which nominated him by acclamation. He still had the enmity of the New York Sun, the quarrel with Mr. Dana remaining unsettled. Mr. Watterson, the leading Democratic editor in the country, was not on rapport with the administration. The party believed that Cleveland was the strongest man to nominate, yet there was no enthusiasm for him. Thurman, the second man on the ticket, excited more popular interest than did Cleveland.

Senator Quay, of Pennsylvania, was then at the apex of his glory as a practitioner of national politics. In the campaign he made a great effort to cut the heart out of the "Solid South". The border states of the old southern Democratic stronghold have been carried often by abrasion, but since 1880 the heart of the South has been untouched.

Quay attempted by the liberal use of money and the corruption of election officers to carry North Carolina, Florida and Tennessee. The Republicans polled unusually large votes in those states in that year, and there are many "wise guy" politicians in the south who will tell you to this day that the states would have been counted for Harrison if Harrison had needed them to win.

But Harrison didn't need them for he captured the pivotal and decisive state of New York by a plurality of over 14,000. That gave him the election, thanks to Tammany Hall. David Bennet Hill was the Democratic candidate for governor on the same ticket with the Cleveland electors. Hill was elected by nearly 20,000 majority. The treachery was palpable, and it had the effect of enraging the Democratic hosts of other parts of the country. Four years later the Tammany Hall protest against Cleveland and the Hill snap boom for president were treated with scant courtesy.

Although Harrison was elected, Cleveland obtained a clear popular majority of 100,000, much more than he had received four years before. As usual, whenever there is a "minority" president, there was a great outcry against the electoral system, and as usual it amounted to nothing.

Q. To settle an argument please tell me whether Grover Cleveland made an active campaign for his election as Governor of New York? G. I. T.

A. Cleveland's gubernatorial campaign could scarcely be called active in the modern acceptance of the term, since he made no speeches whatever. His only appeal to the voters of the state, if it might be called such, was contained in his letter formally accepting the nomination.

Q. How much does a passport cost? C. D. C.

A. The State Department says that the cost of a passport is ten dollars. One dollar of this amount is paid to the clerk of the nearest court which has the privilege of naturalizing aliens. This clerk makes application in due form to the State Department. The nine dollars is paid to this department for the passport itself.

Q. Can cottonseed oil be used in paints? R. E. M.

A. The fact that cottonseed oil is not strictly a drying oil renders it unfit for use in paints.

Q. Did the United States issue any calls for a Volunteer Army before men were drafted into service in the last war? P. L. P.

A. The War Department says that all Army recruiting stations were open, posters were displayed urging men to enlist, and prominent citizens gave talks requesting volunteers, so that every man had a chance to volunteer his service in the army, Navy, or Marine Corps between the dates of April 1917, when we entered the war, and June 5th of that year when the first registration draft was called.

Q. Are Montessori schools public or private? R. P.

A. Montessori schools have been started all over the world, mainly through private effort, but in Switzerland, they have been established publicly by law of 1911.

Q. What is the plural of hippopotamus? C. G. K.

A. New dictionaries give the English plural hippopotamuses in preference to the Latin plural hippopotami.

Q. What distance out to sea does the jurisdiction of this country extend? C. P. B.

The jurisdiction of the United States extends three miles out to sea.

Q. Does pure lard contain any moisture; if so what percent? W. B. McC.

A. The Bureau of Chemistry says that there is only a trace of moisture found in lard. Occasionally it amounts to one-half of one per cent.

Q. Does a car consume more gasoline at 30 miles or at 45 miles an hour? E. C.

A. The American Automobile Association says that other conditions being the same, a car would use less gas when going fast because it would be possible to use a leaner mixture.

New-York - Day-By-Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. — Anarchistic teachings are not alone heard amid the squalor and wretchedness of the East Side. They are sometimes voiced in the parlors of the rich. People here seem to forget that in the poorer sections of New York there are thousands who spurn radical views and cling to American ideals as devotedly as those in the perfumed areas.

In the same building that houses the Russian Voice, a radical paper, there resides a little bald gnome-like fellow who is known as The Nameless Man. He toils with a pick from sun-up until sun-down in the bowers of Manhattan Island, emerging at noon to sit in the sun and wash down his crust of bread with a flask of cold coffee.

And at night he goes to his small room, musty and bare, and the foreign born come to him to hear the wonders of America in half-broken English from his lips. The only decoration in his room is an American flag. He has not yet found America overly kind but he believes in the great country and is a potent force against the waves of Bolshevism.

Old Fanny, whose prototype Belasco put in a play, was once a favorite in a small way in the theatres of Broadway. She now sells soap at dressing room doors. Improvident, she failed to look out for the rainy day and so she became submerged in the polyglot life of the slums.

One might think of her as becoming embittered and an easy prey to the voices of discontent. But it was Old Fanny who snatched a soap box orator off his perch, boxed his ears and stilled the flow of anarchistic ooze that fell from his slimy tongue.

In a ramshackle building on Broome Street the young boys of foreign parentage gather each evening to sing "America" and learn something of its ideals. Their teacher is a man who once followed Emma Goldman's teachings until he saw the folly of his ways.

In a smart tea room the other afternoon there appeared a young girl, whose father used to live in a Bronx flat until the war came and he suddenly became rich. The girl was stunningly gowned.

"My gracious," said one of her companions, "but that is a beautiful frock you are wearing."

"O this!" she said nonchalantly. "This is one of my last month's things."

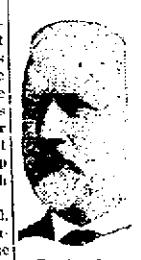

A Fifth Avenue haberdasher advertises "Smart shirtings for town wear." And there are also morning shirtings and afternoon shirtings. And I wonder if there are men who change their shirts several times a day. I tremble to think what might happen if they discovered some afternoon at tea that they were wearing "morning shirtings."

George M. Cohan and Willie Collier, long fast friends, are pouting. Someone sent out a notice that Collier would soon appear in support of Cohan in a new revue the latter is planning. Collier retorted that he didn't love to appear in the support of any one and Cohan came back with the reply that he didn't think he really needed anyone to support him. Of course, both are stars of the first magnitude and the public knows it and their squabble is merely the petty ravings of vanity. It all goes to prove that there is one thing the actor cannot escape, no matter how big he is, and that is an exaggerated idea of his own importance. Cohan and Collier together and singly are excruciatingly funny comedians both on the stage and off.

The Leaves Come Drifting Down

Dressed in their autumn cloaks of rusty brown
With golden hearts and silent lips of red,
Dancing in death, the leaves come drifting down,
Crumpled and curled, the dusty road to bed....
Bowing, now, to the whim of each soft breeze,
Trembling, whirling lightly, one by one,
Forsaking branches of the frosted trees,
Seeking a resting place, their summer done.

Thus may it be when summer ends for me
And the hoar frost of age is on my brow:
That I die uncomplaining, happily,
Even as these mute leaves are dying now....
That I, like these, may leave behind me just
Glad memories when summer's sun shall cease,
And find in my returning to the dust
A greater usefulness.....a greater peace.

He Had To

A dusky chauffeur who recently brought the frame of a big truck from Detroit to Youngstown, rode part of the way sitting on the gas tank, but the seat was so hard he soon became tired of it.

"Ah don't see how you could stan' it, Henry," a friend observed.

"Stan' it," Henry replied. "Mah soreness, dat's jes what Ah couldn't do nothin' else but."

He Reassured Her

A young lady hailed an old-fashioned horse-drawn vehicle there being no taxi-cab in sight. Just as she was getting in she noticed the horse seemed to be frisky. He was jumping about and swishing his tail in a way that alarmed her—she was a timid little thing.

So she addressed a few words to the steel driver.

"I hope," she said smiling bravely, "that you will not run away with me."

The cabby sighed mournfully.

"No, mum, he replied. "I have a wife and seven kids at home already."

"I'll tell you," replied the other candidly, "if I owned hell and France I'd sure sublet France and live in hell."

'SCRAP LEAGUE' SAYS HARDING; ACCEPTS WILSON'S CHALLENGE

LEAGUE OR NO LEAGUE ISSUE IN NOVEMBER

DES MOINES, IA., Oct. 7.—A direct issue of ratifying or rejecting the league of nations was accepted by Senator Harding in a speech here today, brushing aside the problem of clarifying reservations and declaring he would "favor staying out" of the covenant written at Versailles

The candidate said he wanted no acceptance of the league with reservations to clarify American obligations, but that the proper course would be to reject those commitments altogether.

"I do not want to clarify those obligations," he said. "I want to turn my back on them. It is not interpretation but rejection that I am seeking."

Governor Cox's definition of the issue was accepted in direct terms by the Republican nominee, who said Democratic stubbornness had prevented the senate from perfecting the covenant and had made the question fixed before the voter a simple one. He called on all of those favoring a super-government to "vote the Democratic ticket and pray God to protect you against the consequences of your folly."

The senator also restated his program of a world association based on principles in harmony with the constitution and renewed his pledge to initiate the formation of such a concert immediately after his election.

"Our opponents" he said, "are persistently curious to know whether, if ever, perhaps I may better say, when —I am elected, I intend to 'scrap' the league. It might be sufficient in reply to suggest the futility of 'scrapping' something which is already 'scrapped,' and that President Wilson is to be blamed or thanked for the result. The fact remains the Paris league has been scrapped by the hand of its chief architect. The stubborn insistence that it must be ratified without dotting an 'i' or crossing a 't', the refusal to advise—that is to counsel—with the senate, in accordance with the mandate of the constitution is wholly responsible for that condition.

The issue which our opponents are ... to befog is singularly ... and direct. That issue, as made by the Democratic president and the ... cratic platform and the Democratic candidate does not present to the American people the question whether they shall favor some form of ... among the nations for the ... of preserving international ... but whether they favor the par... league proposed by President ...

... Democratic platform and candidate have not declared 'an' association for 'that' association, and it ... association and not some other ... we are promised will be ratified ... if the Democratic ... be elected.

... to be sure, ... its acquiescement with ... and ... qualifications ... betray the innocent and ... but it does, never ... the league as it ... does not advocate or favor ... or amendments ... qualifications. It goes ... suggest that ... to be opposed which make ... specific the obligations ... to the league ... no need of reservations ... The obligations ... specific enough ... proposed be ... not ... understand what a ... of the Democratic ... said 'we are being let in for,' but because I believe I understand precisely what we are being let in for. I do not want to clarify these obligations; I want to turn my back on them. It is not interpretation, but rejection that I am seeking.

"My position is that the proposed league strikes a deadly blow at our constitutional integrity and surrenders to a dangerous extent our independence of action. The Democratic platform rejects this position, to quote the exact words, 'as utterly vain, if not vicious.' The Democratic candidate in his speech of acceptance has said a definite plan has been agreed upon. The league of nations is in operation. Senator Harding as the Republican candidate for the presidency, proposes in plain words that we remain out of it. As the Democratic candidate, I favor going in.'

"The issue therefore is clear.

"I understand the position of the Democratic candidate and he understands mine, as his own words just now quoted plainly show, notwithstanding the recent pretense that my position has not been made clear. In simple words, it is, that he favors going into the Paris league and I favor staying out.

"I do not want any one to be misled. I will have no man's vote under a misunderstanding and I am equally determined, if I can prevent it that my opponent shall have no man's vote upon a misunderstanding. My position I think, has been made perfectly plain but whether it has or not, his position is beyond cavil, and it is that we shall go into the Paris league without modification or substantial qualification. To such a betrayal of my countrymen I will never consent. To those who desire to incur the hazard of entrusting any of the powers of the republic to the direction of a super-government, or, if you prefer, to a council of foreign powers, whether the obligation to follow the council's direction be one of legal or of moral compulsion, I frankly say vote the Democratic ticket and pray God to protect you against the consequences of your folly.

"We have been told that we must ratify the proposed covenant in order to become a member of the league, and that if we do not, we shall be obliged to stand with hat in hand and sue for admission hereafter. He who presents such a humiliating picture is singularly blind to the facts. We stand almost alone among the great nations in our disinterested relation to the problems of the world. Because of this the world is ready to recognize our moral leadership. Because we are not vitally concerned in the conflicting interests of Europe, because we are independent, because we are able to approach the solution of the questions which continually threaten the peace of Europe as an unprejudiced umpire rather than as an interested party, the world will be glad to have us formulate the plan and point the way.

"Surely we have suffered enough from the autocratic assumption of a personal wisdom, which will neither take counsel nor learn from experience. To formulate a plan of international cooperation is a task of no small difficulty. There are many and conflicting opinions among the people and among the members of the senate upon the subject. These opinions must be reconciled and harmonized if we are to have any international association at all.

"I shall not risk embarrassing the final solution of a problem so momentous by undertaking to lay down in advance specific details of plans.

"As soon as possible after my election I shall advise with the best minds in the United States and especially I shall consult in advance with the senate, with whom, by the terms of the constitution, I shall indeed be bound to counsel and without whose consent no such international association can be formed. I shall do this to the end that we shall have an association of nations for the promotion of international peace but one which shall definitely safeguard our sovereignty and recognize our ultimate and unmortgaged freedom of action."

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—Fair weather again greeted baseball fans early today for the third game of the world's series between Brooklyn and Cleveland at Ebbets Field. A slightly rising temperature and a brisk wind were predicted for this afternoon.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—Going into the third game of the world's series at Ebbets Field this afternoon, Cleveland, champions of the American league and Brooklyn of the National league were on even terms, each with one victory chalked up. The game was in the nature of a "rubber." Managers Robinson and Speaker being particularly anxious to win in order to have the advantage when the teams after today's battle resume hostilities at Cleveland Saturday.

The contest in all probability will be a battle between left hand pitchers —Sherrod Smith against Walter Mails. The latter joined the Cleveland club late in August and by winning six games in a row lifted a big burden off the shoulders of Bagby and Coveleskie in the final dash for the flag.

The acquisition of Mails afforded the two stars opportunity for a little more rest between games than they had been able to get during the American league season and give Manager Speaker just what he was in need of, a little left hand pitching to mix up with the right hand slants of Coveleskie and Bagby in the world's series.

Speaker has made the Brooklyn players bat against right hand pitching in the two games played and because of this Mails is likely to get his chance today. With the teams travelling tomorrow, it will enable Coveleskie to have three days rest, which should put him in first class condition to pitch Saturday. Sherrod Smith, the big left hander, was generally considered Manager Robinson's choice. He warmed up with Grimes yesterday and it was not until just before the game started that Grimes was finally selected. In the event of Smith proving ineffective against the Indians Manager Robinson can switch to right hand pitching, using either Mamaux or Cadore, both of whom did well in the last three innings of the opening game.

Behind the masterly pitching of Burleigh Grimes yesterday the Superbas showed to better advantage than they did on Tuesday. The players appeared to have confidence in one another, especially when Indian runners got on the bases. With a lead of one run, Grimes had reason to trust in his team mates and the latter were confident that the pitcher, working as he was, was unbeatable.

There were only two instances during the game when Grimes was in any great danger of being scored upon. One of the situations was quickly erased while in the other the Brooklyn players did not breathe easily until the third man was out in the eighth inning. The first instance came in the second inning when Gardner led off with a double. He, however, was quickly removed when Doc Johnston smashed a hot grounder at Grimes and Gardner was caught between second and third. Grimes' most difficult position was in the eighth, when he passed Jamieson and Burns in succession. Speaker and Smith were erased from the picture, but the always dangerous Gardner appeared upon the scene. He was not given a chance to send home his two waiting team mates for Grimes decided that it was better to pass him also and take a chance on Doc Johnston, although the pass to Gardner filled the bags. But the strategy worked well for Brooklyn, as Johnston hit an easy grounder to Kilduff and Gardner was forced at second.

Thus did the Brooklyn players support their star pitcher through out the nine innings and the combination of effective twirling and faultless fielding made it impossible for Cleveland to score.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 7—Few tickets for the world's series games between the Cleveland Indians and Brooklyn Dodgers have fallen into the hands of scalpers, as a result of the precautions taken by the Cleveland baseball club. This was indicated by the fact that scalpers today were demanding $100 for two box seats for four games, the original cost of which was $52.80.

No tickets for reserved or box seats were sold by the baseball management except to those who hold allotment cards issued by the club, the signatures on which correspond to that on the application for seats. Persons fortunate enough to secure reserved seats were compelled to purchase two seats for four games.

The only individual tickets to be sold by the Cleveland club are those for the bleachers. They will not be obtainable except on the day of the game and the purchaser must pass immediately from the ticket window into the park, relinquishing his ticket at the turnstyle.

Approximately 50 percent of the reserved seats were distributed yesterday, the first day of the ticket sale, to holders of allotment cards. The remainder will be obtainable today and tomorrow.

The new right field stand built along Lexington avenue for the series games has been completed. The stand will seat about 2,000 persons.

The Elyria chamber of commerce has invited the Cleveland team to be guests of honor at its October banquet. It is said Tris Speaker and several of the players have accepted. There are several other northeastern Ohio towns planning receptions.

PRESIDENT DENIES PLEDGING U. S. AID TO ROUMANIA AND SERBIA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—President Wilson today telegraphed Senator Spencer, Republican, of Missouri, that he was content to let the voters of Missouri decide which of them was telling the truth. The telegram referred to the senator's charge that the president had promised military aid to Rumania and Serbia which the president yesterday declared was false.

KANSAS CITY, MO., Oct. 7—Senator Reed, in a telegram to United States Senator Spencer, asserted that President Wilson had made a statement pledging American aid to Roumania and Serbia in an address at the peace conference on May 31, 1919.

"The address did not pass censor until December 3, 1919, when it was brought to this country by a newspaper correspondent and placed in the Washington Star on that date. The speech also appeared in full in the Congressional Record on December 4, 1919, the telegram stated.

Senator Reed's telegram was sent in response to one asking information on the subject.

Senator Reed's telegram urged the president to produce the stenographic record of the peace conference "to show just what was said."

Railroad Men Are Laid Off; Business Slumps

CINCINNATI, O., October 7.—More than two hundred railroad men have been dismissed from the service within the last two weeks in Cincinnati, because a slump in the movement of freight created a condition in which railroads had many more men than were necessary to handle the decreased volume of business, according to operating officials.

Approximately 7,000 loads of freight move out of Cincinnati or pass through this terminal every day under normal conditions. Figures obtained from the terminal manager's office show that the movement during the past week has averaged approximately 5,000 loads daily.

Representative shippers of Cincinnati, discussing the situation, declared that the freight slump is the result of the moral effect the cut in automobile prices has had on business in general.

DECATUR, ILL., October 7.—Announcement was made here today by the Wabash Railroad Company that 525 employes of its mechanical department would be taken off the pay roll October 12. The cut affects about 200 men here. A general slump in business was assigned by officials as the cause for the lay off, the duration of which is indefinite. High cost of labor was also given as a reason for the reduction.

Borah Attacks Wilson's Statement On Article 10

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 7.—Senator Wm. E. Borah of Idaho in an address here made vigorous attack on President Wilson's recent statement on Article Ten of the league covenant. He declared that if this government refused to take up arms to aid a country in the league which was invaded by an enemy "the United States steps out discredited and dishonored and the seeds of war are scattered broadcast."

"The president's last letter to the public informs us that Article Ten does not interfere with right of congress to declare war or not to declare war," said Senator Borah "I can't conceive of but one way that congress could get out of declaring war in case of the invasion of territory of a member of the league and that would be to violate and wholly disregard the plain terms of the treaty and the ... in ... the league covenant itself.

"The president has said heretofore upon a very solemn occasion that Article Ten constitutes a supreme moral obligation upon the part of our nation, which moral obligation, he declared ... be more binding than an obligation of law or contract. Congress is but an agent of the nation and in refusing to carry out a solemn promise would brand our whole people with dishonor and a real turpitude."

BROOKLYN HAS EVEN CHANCE TO COP SERIES

PENNY ANTE — Welcome Stranger

Burleigh Grimes' masterly pitching carried the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 3-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians in the second game of the world's series at Ebbett's Field Wednesday, evening up the series. Bagby started the game for the Indians but was replaced by Uhle in the eighth to allow Graney to enter the game as a pinch hitter.

Brooklyn scored in the first inning as the result of Johnston's single and Wheat's double to center. The second score came in the following inning as the result of Grimes' single, Bagby's wild throw and Griffith's two-bagger into right field. The final tally for the Robins came in the fifth inning on Olson's single and Sewell's error of Griffith's hot grounder.

The closest the Cleveland team came to scoring was in the eighth inning when Grimes struck a short wild spell and passed Jamieson, Burns and Gardner but Johnston forced Gardner and ended the rally.

Speaker, Gardner and Griffith were the batting stars of the game, the Cleveland players both getting two safe knocks in three trips to the plate while Griffith garnered two in four.

Grimes held the Cleveland team to seven scattered hits while the Dodgers garnered the same number off Bagby in six frames. When Uhle replaced Bagby in the sixth he held Brooklyn scoreless for three frames.

Wheat, Gardner, Griffith and Speaker grabbed doubles.

Mails and Smith, both southpaws, will probably vie with their portside slants in today's game. The two teams clash in Cleveland Saturday.

Brooklyn now has an even chance to cop the series.

NEW YORKER DROPS HUGE BANK ROLL

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—District Attorney Swann announced today he had obtained the names of two New York men who lost $25,000 in bets upon the Chicago Americans in the 1919 world series by another New Yorker, who the district attorney declared, was the ringleader in "fixing" games. One of the men lost $20,000 and the other $15,000 it was said.

"Two men who lost money and lost heavily, are known to me, and I can't persuade them to come here and tell me or the grand jury about it," District Attorney Swann said. "Both say they were persuaded by this master mind to place bets, and that they bet and he won. But they both tell me they know about the games being fixed."

Mr. Swann declared he had been unable to get any witnesses for the grand jury investigation although he is seeking Abe Attell, former featherweight champion boxer, and two others. He said he had received no word from Arnold Rothstein.

"I have direct information that Rothstein always bet on Cincinnati and always won," the district attorney asserted, "and that all bets on the Chicago team were at his suggestion."

Players Consult Lawyer

GREENVILLE, S. C., Oct. 7—Joe Jackson and Claude Williams, two White Sox players indicted by the Cook County grand jury, who arrived in Greenville yesterday, visited a local lawyer today for legal advice. The nature of advice sought was not disclosed. They later went out into the country to visit Jackson's uncle. They had no further comment to make at this time on the recent baseball scandal.

THESE UMPIRES ARE "CALLING 'EM" IN WORLD'S SERIES

These are the four men who are calling balls and strikes, "out" and "safe" in the classic being staged by the Brooklyn Dodgers and Cleveland Indians. Two of these men will umpire behind the plate and on the bases each day as usual. The other two will be stationed on the right and left field foul lines to call close decisions on balls hit to the outfield.

WILLAMAN HURT

Frank Willaman, Ohio State's star fullback, will be out of the game for several weeks because of injury received in practice Wednesday.

He has been handicapped all season by a weak knee and his loss to the team will weaken the offensive power of the Scarlet and Gray team. Coach Wilce is hoping that the giant fullback will be able to get back in the game for the Home Coming game with Purdue, when it is expected that 20,000 Ohio State graduates from all over the United States will be in attendance, but it is doubtful, as that game is scheduled for a week from Saturday, October 16.

Willaman was a member of the 1917 and 1919 Buckeye elevens.

BELIEVE CHILLICOTHE HAS BEEN HEADQUARTERS OF BOLD THIEVES

CHILLICOTHE, O., October 7.—The arrest today of B. T. Davis and Alfred Kellhoefer, both of this city, on charges of unlawfully selling large quantities of cigarettes, brought announcement from police that they believe Chillicothe has been headquarters of a gang of freight thieves whose activity in the last year have caused the N. & W. railroad a loss of over $50,000. Today's arrest followed indictment yesterday of three Columbus youths on charges of having stolen cigarettes from a car near here.

Warrants for the arrest of Davis and Kellhoefer were issued at Circleville, north of here on the N. & W., where it is alleged that Davis sold 80,000 cigarettes to a firm and Kellhoefer also disposed of thirty thousand. Arraigned there the men waived examination and were bound over to the grand jury in sums of three thousand dollars.

The car from which the merchandise sold by these men was alleged to have been taken, pulled into Cleveland, Ohio, one day last week, with a hole cut in the top of the car. The goods were traced when the consignee's name was found on one of the cases bought from Davis. The consignee is a Cleveland firm.

Meanwhile, Lambert, Frazier and Conrad, the Columbus men arrested Tuesday, are still in the county jail, where they received a severe grilling, Wednesday morning. All stuck vigorously to their original stories, though each told a different version.

Bond for the men was fixed by Judge Goldsberry, Wednesday, on motion of the defendant's counsel. Lambert's bond was fixed at $1,000, while that of Frazier and Conrad is $1,500.

Ruth Says Great Majority Of Players Honest

"The great majority of baseball players are honest, clean players and good sports," said "Babe" Ruth colossus of swat, when asked his opinion of the big baseball scandal.

"Baseball is a good game and too wholesome to be spoiled by a few dishonest players and gamblers," Ruth said. "I think the American public realizes that it is but the mistakes of a few that are now attracting the public attention. But the people should not forget that the majority of players are square and honest in their playing.

"For my own part, I hope the whole business is sifted down to rock-bottom and every player, no matter how good a performer he may be, receives the punishment he deserves if found guilty. That is the only way the public confidence can be restored."

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Oct. 7—Before a large crowd of enthusiastic fans the Cincinnati Reds yesterday afternoon defeated the locals in an interesting game by a score of 6 to 3. ## ,,Ghost Ball" Practice Is Latest At Ohio State

The long grind of football practice required in Big Ten football circles is about to start at Ohio State in the form of "ghost ball" practice, which is nothing more nor less than practicing after dark with a white-washed ball.

Moving back the clock robbed the Scarlet and Gray team of an hour's daylight practice and ere long the greater part of the practice will be under artificial lights with the decorated pigskin.

Coach Jack Wilce now has a tangible working knowledge of Ohio State's strength and weakness. The Ohio Wesleyan game, though an easy contest, however brought out the points that need emphasizing and the men are being driven harder than ever in preparation for the Oberlin contest. These two teams, who were great rivals a decade ago, have not met since Ohio State whitewashed them with a record score of 128—0 in 1917.

No Changes Were Made

The Brooklyn team played throughout the second game of the series with the same lineup, Manager Robinson not deeming it necessary to insert any pinch hitter and the replacing of Grimes was not considered at any time.

Chinese First in Field.

Of the many debts that Europe and America owe to China, not the least is that of the manufacture of ceramics. The Chinese were the original producers of vitrified translucent white ware which to this day among the English-speaking races bears the name of china. The Italians first copied this ware porcelain, but the English, owing to the frequent use of the Persian word "chini" by the Italians, called it china. The growth of the industry is one of the many marvels of the world. Its history is as ancient as that of the pyramids.

WEIGH YOUR LINGERIE—LATEST FAD

Mrs. Ruth Davis of San Francisco weighing her "undies."

Californians like to think of San Francisco as the Paris of American fashion, and it might truly be called that if the starting of fads has anything to do with the name. It was San Francisco which decreed that milady, to be ultra smart must devote her thoughts to quality in quantity. The weighing of lingerie and stockings was the outgrowth of this idea. The standard weight for lingerie and hose has been set by fashion experts at one and one quarter ounces. The photograph is of Mrs. Ruth Davis weighing her "undies" to see whether they are the fashionable standard weight.

Brooklyn Pitchers Living Up To Advance Notices

A glance at the box score of Wednesday's game reveals the secret of Brooklyn's victory. Although both teams secured seven safeties, the Brooklyn hits came at the time when they were most needed, while the Cleveland batters displayed an inability to hit, when hits meant runs.

Cleveland had ten men left on bases which clearly shows the falling yesterday of the Cleveland sluggers. Brooklyn had only four, thus marooned. The only error of the game was charged up to Bagby.

The Brooklyn nine had 27 put-outs and 12 assists to 24 and 9 respectively for the Indians.

The Cleveland sluggers have not shown any of the tremendous hitting thus far in the series that they showed throughout the season, although Speaker and Gardner gathered two safeties in yesterday's contest.

Thus far in the series, the two teams combined have secured only 21 safe hits.

Hold Scrimmage Practice

Scrimmage was in order for the P. H. S. gridders Wednesday. Although Frowine and McConnell will be out of the game because of ineligibility rules, and Captain Molter and Chabot will be out with injuries, the team has not lost heart, and diligent practice goes on.

Cunliffe has ben practicing at right half this week, with Wilson, Strittmatter and Pride completing the quartette.

BOWLING

MASONIC BOWLING LEAGUE

This Week's Schedule

Thursday, Oct. 7—Horrables vs. Wholesalers, Play House.

Friday, Oct. 8—Royals vs. Trumps, Play House.

Friday, Oct. 8—Mutuals vs. Brummels, Pennant Alleys.

The Waltons, captained by O. C. Sprague, maintained their winning gait in the Masonic Bowling League, and still have a clean record, by capturing three in a row from the Auroras, despite the terrific coaching of Captain Edward Leach, at the Play House alleys, last evening. The Auroras might have done better had they been represented by a full team, but two "blinds" spoiled all the chance they had of winning. Dr. Tatje was high man of the fracas, getting a total of 514 and high score 214. His middle game was characteristic of 1919-20, but the doctor expects that to be the last time he will roll under the 150 mark in a single game. Earl Clare, anchor man for the Waltons, shot for a total of 496, his strike ball not being in working order. Dallas Lemon, of the Auroras, was in fine form, shooting for an average of 161. Captain Sprague was there, or close by, all evening, averaging better than 150. The scores:

Putting Mystery to Work.

Let no one argue that because the mind is still intangible—and probably always will be to mortal man—that psychology is impracticable. Electricity is an unknown quantity; no one knows whence it cometh or whither it goeth; yet it would be hard to find anything more practical than an electric fan on a sweltering day—to take one of the least and most homely of its uses. Although mysterious, electricity can be directed, its reactions predicted, and its power ascertained. The result is that the element is exceedingly useful. R. H. Platt, Jr., in the World's Work.

BOTH SINGLE AND SINGULAR

BOSTON has started out a crusade against the high cost of living. It is a great movement. Boston admits it herself and she is generously backed in her self esteem by a lot of papers and publicists, who think it is popular to join in the hue and cry, or else believe all the afflictions that man is heir to come from the high cost of living—in one sole direction— and that dissipated all evils will go along with it.

Boston's wonderful invention takes the form of banker, lawyer, typewriter, business man and clerk taking their noon day meal to the office or store in a basket, or paper, instead of getting a snack at a profiteering lunch counter.

Now wonderful, indeed, isn't it! Yes, so wonderful that it could originate in no other place than in the mighty brain of a Bostonese and certainly find no wide exemplification in practice, except in the place made famous by the introduction of the baked bean.

But, notice, it begins at the same place, on food—save food and all else will get cheaper. Ninety-nine and nine-tenths of the prosecutions and the campaigns have been directed against the same center and they have all failed, as this latest one will, because it deserves to fail. Food is the cheapest part of an individual's living today. It is higher than it was a matter of two or three times back, but it doesn't show half the percentage rise that most everything else does. Things don't grow a bit cheaper than they used to. Time was when a farmer could hire all the help he wanted for a dollar a day and board, now if he be fortunate enough to find anyone that will hire at all, he has to pay him $4 a day and board. He could buy a wheat drill for $75, now it costs him $185. It is that way all along the line in his productive activities.

A farmer works 365 days a year. Not exactly a full day on Sundays, but he gets in enough overtime on the others to make that up and some. Not one in ten of the thousands in Scioto county can show cash receipts three hundred dollars a year, above the cost of primitive necessities, not counting his food. Nine men out of every ten in Portsmouth, who work steadily in any way here in Portsmouth can do better than that.

It is foolish and unjust to make him, at least by indirection bear the chief brunt of all this kicking about the high cost of living, especially, when if most of us didn't live so high there would be scant room or impulse to kick.

AN ESTABLISHED FACT

ALL the legal proceedings having been effectively carried out, and order of the county commissioners, entered Tuesday, attached the territory theretofore included in the corporate village of Sciotoville, to Portsmouth and the same is now an integral part of the city.

The addition of this territory and that which lies between, excepting the village of New Boston, extends the limits of Portsmouth from the Big to the Little Scioto rivers, and gives her a population somewhat inex cess of 36,000. These figures, however, will not appear in the census as annexation and the consequent increase of inhabitants did not take place until sometime after the census count.

Here we are reminded that, after all things move quickly in this life. It was about six years ago that the purpose to extend the city limits of Portsmouth was born of an article in The Times, raising the popular idea of a "Greater Portsmouth—from the Big to the Little Scioto." Though to some it seemed rather far fetched at the time, it is now a reality. Of course, there is some glory in a substantial gain in population, but the excessence of the achievement is that it provides for the future, makes sure that the increase the city is bound to have in the future will be definitely and officially fixed as her's.

We talk so much about the advance of Portsmouth that we rather overlook the fact that Scioto county is growing too, do not recognize the high position she holds as compared with the other eight-eight counties of the state. Among them she now stands seventeenth in population on the 1920 census, having passed Licking and Muskingum. Not all appears in that because her percentage gain was far better than several others on whose heels she is now closely pressing.

Presidential Campaigns

By Frederic J. Haskin

The Harrison-Cleveland Race of 1888.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 7— Grover Cleveland was elected president the first time because of his views on the tariff question. Because he was too insistent upon the expression of the same views he was defeated for reelection in 1888. Mr. Cleveland was the only president who ever devoted an entire annual message to congress to the discussion of one subject. The Fiftieth Congress was the second of Mr. Cleveland's first term, and the Democratic majority in the house had been re-elected, while the Republican majority in the senate had been diminished.

The president believed that the result of the 1886 elections meant that the people wished to carry out his ideas on the tariff. Therefore he devoted his entire annual message to the tariff, discussing nothing else and placing the tariff question in a position of paramount importance never before occupied by any issue in the legislative history of the country. That message was prepared and sent against the advice of the leaders of the party. It did not meet with the reception hoped for, and the tide turned against the Democrats. But even with that complication in the way, Cleveland would have been re-elected but for the treachery of Tammany Hall.

The Republican candidate was Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana—grandson of William Henry Harrison, "Old Tippecanoe," and great grandson of a Virginia signer of the Declaration of Independence; a direct descendant of Pocahontas, and connected with all of the prominent old families of colonial days. He was the first successful candidate for president since Zachary Taylor, who might claim to be of "aristocratic" lineage.

Memories of the famous "Tippecanoe" campaign were revived by ardent Republicans, while facetious Democrats poked fun at the candidate. They were pleased to call him the midget grandson in the giant grandfather's hat. Every cartoonist accepted the "grandfather's hat" as the badge of Harrison's candidacy. As a result, the campaign of 1888 became a campaign of hats.

A Campaign of Hats

The Republican marching clubs and "rooters" affected big hats of the bee hive variety such as were worn by Grandfather "Tippecanoe" Harrison in the campaign of 1840. The Democrats adopted the white felt "topper" which was a favorite with Mr. Cleveland. All over the country rural Democrats who would have fainted at the notion of a black silk top-hat, bought the white "Cleveland hats" and wore them summer and winter, day and night. The Democratic candidate for vice president was Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio, whom men loved to call the "Old Roman." Senator Thurman's inseparable companion was a red bandana handkerchief. So to the white top hat, every loyal Democrat added the equipment of a red bandana. Then he was ready to hike and hurrah and harangue for Cleveland and Thurman.

The campaign of 1888 was a vast improvement over the scandal-mongering contest of four years before. Mr. Cleveland had gained the respect of the country by his administration of affairs, whether he had its approval or not. Mr. Harrison had both the respect and confidence of the country. The campaign was conducted with great dignity. The rivalry between the parties was sharp, there were many doubtful states and in none of them was victory for either side overwhelming. It was however, a battle of parties and not of candidates. The tariff issue was a real issue. Neither of the candidates appealed to the enthusiasm of the masses of their followers. There was no great popular outburst for either one. It was the coldest of the close presidential contests.

The First Porch Campaign

Benjamin Harrison was one of the ablest of the men who have occupied the White House. His state papers are fit to rank with the best in the archives of the Republic, not excepting those penned by Washington, Jefferson or John Quincy Adams. His administration was far from tranquil, yet its sharpest conflicts arose from the fact that Harrison, in the interest of the whole people, opposed the schemes of certain of his party leaders, advocates of the interests of a very few.

Better campaign speeches have never been made than those which Benjamin Harrison delivered at his home in Indianapolis, originating the "front porch" campaign system. Other candidates had spoken from their verandas, but Harrison was the first who did it systematically and to whose home special trains brought thousands of excursionists every week. That these excursions were often made up with free passes and paid delegations, for the effect the reports of the tremendous outpouring would have on distant states, is undoubtedly true, but politics was becoming advanced in that day.

Harrison won his nomination in the Republican convention as the choice of those elements opposed to the nomination of John Sherman of Ohio. Sherman went into the convention with more than twice as many votes as his next highest competitor, Walter Q. Gresham, of Indiana. Third in the race was Chauncey M. Depew, of New York, fourth was General Russell A. Alger, of Michigan, fifth was Benjamin Harrison, sixth was William B. Allison, of Iowa, and then a dozen other smaller ones, each of whom hoped to be the successful "dark horse." James G. Blaine, "the Henry Clay of the Republican party" wanted the nomination. But he had written letters saying he wouldn't take it, and although he wavered and wabbled in his messages to his friends, he finally cabled from Europe that he was not in the race. His state voted for him to the last, notwithstanding his withdrawal.

Quay's Methods

Cleveland and Thurman were nominated without any serious opposition. Tammany Hall still hated Cleveland, but there was no open opposition in the convention which nominated him by acclamation. He still had the enmity of the New York Sun, the quarrel with Mr. Dana remaining unsettled. Mr. Watterson, the leading Democratic editor in the country, was not en rapport with the administration. The party believed that Cleveland was the strongest man to nominate, yet there was no enthusiasm for him. Thurman, the second man on the ticket, excited more popular interest than did Cleveland.

Senator Quay, of Pennsylvania, was then at the apex of his glory as a practitioner of national politics. In the campaign he made a great effort to cut the heart out of the "Solid South". The border states of the old southern Democratic stronghold have been carried often by abrasion, but since 1850 the heart of the South has been untouched.

Quay attempted by the liberal use of money and the corruption of election officers to carry North Carolina, Florida and Tennessee. The Republicans polled unusually large votes in those states in that year, and there are many "wise guy" politicians in the south who will tell you to this day that the states would have been counted for Harrison if Harrison had needed them to win.

But Harrison didn't need them, for he captured the pivotal and decisive state of New York by a plurality of over 13,000. That gave him the election, thanks to Tammany Hall. David Bennet Hill was the Democratic candidate for governor on the same ticket with the Cleveland electors. Hill was elected by nearly 20,000 majority. The treachery was palpable, and it had the effect of enraging the Democratic hosts of other parts of the country. Four years later the Tammany Hall protest against Cleveland and the Hill snap boom for president were treated with scant courtesy.

Although Harrison was elected, Cleveland obtained a clear popular majority of 100,000, much more than he had received four years before. As usual, whenever there is a "minority" president, there was a great outcry against the electoral system, and as usual it amounted to nothing.

Q. To settle an argument please tell me whether Grover Cleveland made an active campaign for his election as Governor of New York? G. L. T.

A. Cleveland's gubernatorial campaign could scarcely be called active in the modern acceptance of the term, since he made no speeches whatever. His only appeal to the voters of the state, if it might be called such, was contained in his letter formally accepting the nomination.

Q. How much does a passport cost? C. D. C.

A. The State Department says that the cost of a passport is ten dollars. One dollar of this amount is paid to the clerk of the nearest court which has the privilege of naturalizing aliens. This clerk makes application in due form to the State Department. The nine dollars is paid to this department for the passport itself.

Q. Can cottonseed oil be used in paints? R. E. M.

A. The fact that cottonseed oil is not strictly a drying oil renders it unfit for use in paints.

Q. Did the United States issue any calls for a Volunteer Army before men were drafted into Service in this last war? F. L. P.

A. The War Department says that all Army recruiting stations were open, posters were displayed urging men to enlist, and prominent citizens gave talks requesting volunteers, so that every man had a chance to volunteer his service in the army, Navy, or Marine Corps between the dates of April 1917, when we entered the war, and June 5th of that year when the first registration draft was called.

Q. Are Montessori schools public or private? H. P.

A. Montessori schools have been started all over the world, mainly through private effort, but in Switzerland, they have been established publicly by law of 1911.

Q. What is the plural of hippopotamus? G. G. K.

A. New dictionaries give the English plural hippopotamuses in preference to the Latin plural hippopotami.

Q. What distance out to sea does the jurisdiction of this country extend? G. D. B.

The jurisdiction of the United States extends three miles out to sea.

Q. Does pure lard contain any moisture; if so what percent? W. B. McC.

A. The Bureau of Chemistry says that there is only a trace of moisture found in lard. Occasionally it amounts to one-half of one per cent.

Q. Does a car consume more gasoline at 30 miles or at 15 miles an hour? E. C.

A. The American Automobile Association says that other conditions being the same, a car would use less gas when going fast because it would be possible to use a leaner mixture.

New-York - Day-By-Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.— Anarchistic teachings are not alone heard amid the squalor and wretchedness of the East Side. They are sometimes voiced in the parlors of the rich. People here seem to forget that in the poorer sections of New York there are thousands who spurn radical views and cling to American ideals as devotedly as those in the perfumed areas.

In the same building that houses the Russian Voice, a radical paper, there resides a little bald gnome-like fellow who is known as The Nameless Man. He toils with a pick from sun-up until sun-down in the bowels of Manhattan Island, emerging at noon to sit in the sun and wash down his crust of bread with a flask of cold coffee.

And at night he goes to his small room, musty and bare, and the foreign born come to him to hear the wonders of America in half-broken English from his lips. The only decoration in his room is an American flag. He has not yet found America overly kind but he believes in the great country and is a potent force against the waves of Bolshevism.

Old Fanny, whose prototype Belasco put in a play, was once a favorite in a small way in the theatres of Broadway. She now sells soap at dressing room doors. Improvident, she failed to look out for the rainy day and so she became submerged in the polyglot life of the slums.

One might think of her as becoming embittered and an easy prey to the voices of discontent. But it was Old Fanny who snatched a soap box orator off his perch, boxed his ears and stilled the flow of anarchistic ooze that fell from his slimy tongue.

In a ramshackle building on Broome Street the young boys of foreign parentage gather each evening to sing "America" and learn something of its ideals. Their teacher is a man who once followed Emma Goldman's teachings until he saw the folly of his ways.

In a smart tea room the other afternoon there appeared a young girl, whose father used to live in a Bronx flat until the war came and he suddenly became rich. The girl was stunningly gowned.

"O this!" she said nonchalantly. "This is one of my last month's things."

A Fifth Avenue haberdasher advertises "smart shirtings for town wear." And there are also morning shirtings and afternoon shirtings. And I wonder if there are men who change their shirts several times a day. I tremble to think what might happen if they discovered some afternoon at tea that they were wearing "morning shirtings."

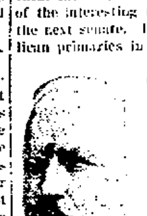

George M. Cohan and Willie Collier, long fast friends, are pouting. Someone sent out a notice that Collier would soon appear in support of Cohan in a new revue the latter is planning. Collier retorted that he didn't have to appear in the support of any one and Cohan came back with the reply that he didn't think he really needed anyone to support him. Of course, both are stars of the first magnitude and the public knows it and their squabble is merely the petty ravings of vanity. It all goes to prove that there is one thing the actor cannot escape, no matter how big he is, and that is an exaggerated idea of his own importance. Cohan and Collier together and singly are excruciatingly funny comedians both on the stage and off

The Leaves Come Drifting Down

Dressed in their autumn cloaks of rusty brown
With golden hearts and silent lips of red,
Dancing in death, the leaves come drifting down,
Crumpled and curled, the dusty road to bed....
Bowing, now, to the whim of each soft breeze,
Trembling, whirling lightly, one by one,
Forsaking branches of the frosted trees,
Seeking a resting place, their summer done.

Thus may it be when summer ends for me
And the hoar frost of age is on my brow:
That I die uncomplaining, happily,
Even as these mute leaves are dying now....
That I, like these, may leave behind me just
Glad memories when summer's sun shall cease,
And find in my returning to the dust
A greater usefulness....a greater peace.

A dusky chauffeur who recently brought the frame of a big truck from Detroit to Youngstown, rode part of the way sitting on the gas tank, but the seat was so hard he soon became tired of it.

"Stan' it," Henry replied. "Mah goodness, dat's jes what Ah couldn't do nothin' else but."

A young lady hailed an old-fashioned horse-drawn vehicle, there being no taxi-cab in sight. Just as she was getting in she noticed the horse seemed to be frisky. He was jumping about and swishing his tail in a way that alarmed her—she was a timid little thing.

So she addressed a few words to the aged driver.

"I hope," she said smiling bravely, "that you will not run away with me."

The cabby sighed mournfully.

"No, mum, he replied. "I have a wife and seven kids at home already."

Movie Men Decide Not To Contest The Indictments

INFORM COURT OF WILLINGNESS TO TO ENTER PLEAS

BULLETIN

A sudden halt came in the moving picture men's trial when they appeared in court at nine o'clock this morning. The movie men with their attorneys appeared in court and when court opened the attorneys for the defense withdrew their plea in bar and said they would appear in court at nine o'clock Monday morning to enter pleas to the indictments returned against them last week by the grand jury.

When the plea in bar was withdrawn, it ended the fight the movie men have made to have the indictments thrown aside, their plea being that they could not be tried on the indictments while they were in Municipal court for the same offense.

The withdrawing of the plea by the defense came as a big surprise to the large crowd who were not looking for the defense to "throw up their hands."

It is expected that the trial of the case of the State against George L. Law, movie theater proprietor, which started before Judge Thomas and a jury in Common Pleas court Wednesday morning, will be concluded early this afternoon when the case will go to the jury.

The jury will not be required to pass on the guilt or innocence of the defendant of the charge laid in the indictment, which alleges a violation of law by operating his show on Sunday Sept., 26, but to determine the validity of the previous prosecution in Municipal court for the same offense. Attorneys for the defendant contended Law's plea of guilty once placed him in jeopardy and is a complete bar to further prosecution. The state challenged this plea by charging that the former prosecution was procured through fraud and collusion and a conspiracy with others to defeat the ends of justice.

The two sessions of court Wednesday were consumed in securing a jury and the hearing of testimony, the state calling witnesses including Theo. K. Funk, who represents the movie men, Joseph W. Booth, who filed the charges in Municipal court, Municipal Clerk F. D. Shonkwiler and Bailiff George Foehr and movie proprietors L. D. Welch, Dallas Howland, J. F. Potts, Francis McDonald and City Attorney S. A. Skelton in an effort to show the alleged conspiracy.

The state had not finished its evidence when the court adjourned for the day.

Attorney Funk on being recalled to the stand stated that he did not draw the affidavits and that they were prepared by Clerk F. D. Shonkwiler. He told of conferring with the movie men on Sept. 28 and of advising them that a plea of guilty to the affidavits in Municipal court would be a bar to further prosecution.

Joseph W. Booth testified that he filed the affidavits on his own initiative after visiting the various theaters on Sunday and gave as an excuse his delay in filing the charges until Tuesday that he was waiting to see if anyone else took any action along the same line. He denied that he had conferred with any of the movie men concerning the charges to be filed or that he had any information that there was something stirring in town shortly before the charges were filed. He strenuously denied anyone requested him to institute the prosecutions.

Clerk Shonkwiler told of preparing the affidavits for Booth during the noon hour and he said that he heard no discussion about Municipal court during the day that the movie prosecutions might be taken care of in another court.

Solicitor Skelton was called to show that the state was not represented when the movie men were arraigned in Municipal court. He said he was not present nor was he consulted in any way concerning the charges.

On cross examination the solicitor stated that it was a custom that in a great number of cases for the court to accept pleas and assess penalties in his absence.

L. G. Welch, Dallas Howland, J. F. Potts and Francis McDonald told of conferring with Attorney Funk on Sept 28 concerning the filing of charges in Municipal court but denied that their action was inspired by a rumor that the grand jury was in session and would likely investigate their cases. They were all asked by Judge Blair to give the names of their operators and ticket sellers but all refused to answer claiming privilege on the ground that it might incriminate them and the court did not compel them to answer.

Bailiff George Foehr was present when Booth signed the affidavits and he told of going to the Court House after Judge Smell shortly before noon at the request of Chief Distel.

FIND STILL ON BOAT, TWO ARRESTS MADE

IRONTON, O., Oct. 7—As the result of a raid made Wednesday afternoon by Sheriff Hutchinson and Revenue Agent McCullough, Lindsay Justice and Otis Vance are in jail on a charge of illicit distilling.

The raid was attended with some excitement, Sheriff Hutchinson firing a number of shots before effecting the arrests and the alleged moonshiners making a strenuous effort to escape on the bosom of the old Ohio.

It has been suspected for some time that Justice and Vance were conducting a moonshine still on a family boat moored just below the Gibbons Farm at Hanging Rock and near the site of a fishing camp that has been popular for several years. Having secured sufficient evidence to warrant the raid, Revenue Agent McCullough and Sheriff Hutchinson drove to the scene in the latter's car shortly after noon Wednesday.

The officers slipped through the willows and located the boat, but it is apparent that the men had a lookout, as when the officers broke from cover and made toward the boat, Justice and Vance, who were on the bank, at once made a rush for their craft. Despite six shots fired by the sheriff, they succeeded in getting to the boat, had slipped her lines and were drifting out into the current when the sheriff took a running leap after a dash through mud and water and succeeded in boarding the boat. Despite the fact that his revolver was empty, Sheriff Hutchinson kicked in the door of the boat and found the two occupants stretched out on the floor, where they had taken refuge out of range of possible bullets. They surrendered without protest.

The officers found a nice still still in actual operation and dripping moonshine. In addition to about three quarts of the finished product, about seventy-five gallons of "mash" and the necessary ingredients of manufacture. Two shotguns and a revolver were also found.

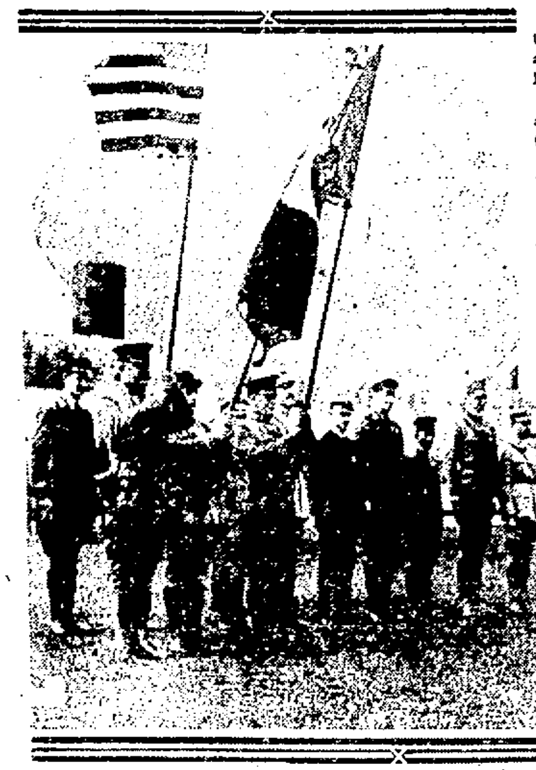

The officers brought their prisoners to the city shortly after two o'clock and landed them in jail.

TWO SMART VELVET HATS FOR YOUTH

Here are two smart little chapeaux which were designed especially for youth. The larger model is called the airplane hat because of the huge velvet bow which resembles a propeller. The smaller hat in the corner is a combination of turban and tam. It is made of brown velvet embroidered in white wool. Both hats are smart for general wear with suits, coats or frocks. Of course, the larger hat is more suitable for semi-dress occasions.

NUMEROUS IMPROVEMENTS IN CITY CONSIDERED LAST NIGHT BY COUNCIL

Considerable legislation providing for the improvement of several streets and alleys and the construction of a number of sanitary sewers in various parts of the city was passed by Council at its regular meeting Wednesday night.

The service department was also ordered to make the necessary repairs to the streets in the North Moreland addition and an estimate was ordered on the cost of improving the river grade at the foot of Market street after Capt. Kimball, owner of the wharf boat, urged that some immediate relief be given. He declared that the Green Line steamers and the Liberty Transfer company had threatened to withhold their wharfage fees and file suits seeking damages unless the grade was put in better condition. Councilman Wesbrod pointed out in this connection that the wharfage fees, which were supposed to be kept in a separate fund had been diverted to other channels instead of being applied to the expense of keeping the grade in proper shape for travel.

New Traffic Ordinance

A new traffic ordinance prepared by the Portsmouth Automobile club and endorsed by that organization was presented for consideration but was put over after some changes had been suggested and which included the establishment of one-way streets for traffic in order to try the project. The ordinance will be made a special order of business at an adjourned meeting to be held on Oct. 11.

businesses and he suggested that the ordinance be made more general.

A petition was read from 68 property owners of Mabert Road urging that the thoroughfare be repaired above where the paving will end so that it can be traveled this winter. It was represented that the road is now almost impassable and the petition was referred to the street committee to give some relief.

Attorney Mark Crawford asked council to rescind its former action and grant the Pure Oil company the right to remove a small portion of the flood wall from in front of its filling station near the Scioto bridge, the company to extend and connect the flood wall in the rear of its property. Council indicated it favored granting the request and the matter was referred the solicitor to confer with Mr. Crawford and prepare a written agreement.

Straus Submits Report

Safety Director St. Straus made a number of recommendations in a written report which he submitted and which follows:

Gentlemen:

Would recommend that Council pass an ordinance allowing policemen and firemen pay while off duty on account of sickness or disability. This would avoid a good deal of legislation and enable us to pay men without delay. In the case of Fireman James Rizzo, Council had to pass a number of resolutions to pay him after the January accident. The state examiner says that it is illegal to pay police or firemen unless Council takes action as above mentioned.

All the Darling Fire Hydrants have been rethreaded to conform with the National Standard. We were furnished with dies by the company without charge. Mr. Wm. Leichenbeimer is also installing all fire cistern tops on the inside so that in case of fire in the winter no time will be lost in getting water. Several bad fires have occurred in past years on account of delay caused by tops being covered with ice or snow. The entire hydrant system is being looked after and in the future a frozen hydrant will be a rarity. Hereafter all hose and hydrants should be purchased according to the National Standard. This will avoid the trouble we have had in the past. I recommend that in making water main extensions as this clause be inserted, that only approved hydrants can be used. This does not limit us to any one make of hydrants, but there are several good standard makes.

We have written several letters to the ... Contract Company ... and have also mailed them a bill in the amount of $25 for the ... of ... fire hose ... them by the fire department on order of Chief Koerner, the same never being returned. No attention has been paid to our letters. The only course left is to enter suit. The solicitor states that this must be done in Cincinnati, as there would be a good deal of expense attached, would ask Council to advise in the matter.

We are entitled under an ordinance passed by Council to engage 12 student nurses at the hospital. We have only had 7 on duty for sometime and at present only 6. We have advertised in Portsmouth and Cincinnati papers, but none fit for service have applied. Would recommend that Council allow us to engage another Graduate Nurse at $3.25 per day in case of emergency such as now exists.

Sciotoville has been annexed and is now a part of Greater Portsmouth and is entitled to police and fire protection. Would recommend that two men be added to the fire department, one for night duty, the other for day. Clothe them with police power and in addition authorize the fire chief to organize a volunteer fire department, purchase a Ford truck mounted with two 40 gallon chemical tanks, ladders, etc. This would give them all the protection needed. In case of a big fire at Sciotoville we would have to send the hose for water and then it would be necessary to send one of our big Fire pumpers.
